Ex-mayor Stewart to run

19 Candidates file for primary

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

A total of 19 Romulus residents have taken out filing petitions from the city clerk's office as of Monday afternoon, indicating that they plan at this time to seek nominations for one of the 12 elected offices at stake in the Sept. 10 primary election.

Heading the list of five possible candidates for the mayoral nomination are incumbent Mayor William M. Oakley and James C. Stewart, former mayor from 1975-77.

Also taking out petitions for the mayor's race are: Ed Fall, former director of the city building department, who was fired several months ago by Mayor Oakley; Ed Rush, prominent city florist who initiated a lawsuit against the city alleging violations of the Open Meetings Act; and Robert Plank, a political unknown.

Rush and Fall also took out petitions for the council race in which all seven seats are open.

Also seeking nomination for one of the council's two year terms are: Charles Hazen, former city industrial coordinator; Edward Thomas; incumbent Mary Ann Banks, current council president; incumbent Jimmie Raspberry; incumbent Ray Cantrell; Barry Bauman; Howard Bruce; and Richard Campbell, strong backer of We the People, a group of citizens who help sponsor Meet the Candidates Night.

In the contest seeking nominations for the clerk's office, incumbent Leonard J. Folmar, a nine-year veteran in that office, and Jerry Kubiak, former director of safety and regulations, took out filing petitions.

Vying for nominations for treasurer are incumbent Helen Gallien and Beverly McAnally, presently a member of the city council.

Billed as non-partisan, the primary and final election (Nov. 6), are expected to heat up in ensuing months. Last year, many townspeople expressed chagrin at the title of "Cuckoo's Nest" which was tagged on to the city because of past elections in which mud-slinging, character assassination and innuendoes played a major part of election campaigns.

The Roman joined with this group in lamenting the sad state of political campaigning in Romulus and called for a rebirth of clean campaigning in which constructive platforms, explanation of issues and fair play dominated the politics of the city.

Deadline for filing petitions is 4 p.m. July 23 in the city clerk's office.

Council does turnaround; will pay Rush's legal fees

It took a special closed session Saturday morning, but the Romulus City Council backpedalled on action taken last week and voted 4-0 to pay for legal fees incurred by a city florist who sued the city for violation of the state's Open Meetings Act.

Last week, council voted 4-3 to continue the lawsuit which was scheduled again last Monday in Wayne County Circuit Court.

At that time, council's vote ignored advice by Charles Lowther, city attorney, to pay attorney fees for Ed Rush rather than to right the suit which he told them was a lost cause.

Rush informed the Roman that his lawyer, Stephen Danko, had received a call Sunday at his home from Dennis Nystrom, a senior member of the law firm hired by the city, telling him that the council had agreed to pay approximately $2,500 in legal fees Rush had run up in his suit against the city.

Rush had agreed to drop the suit if the city paid his legal fees, evidently feeling that he had made his point. Last October, Rush was successful in obtaining an injunction from the circuit court forbidding closed council sessions and ordering that body to post notice of open meetings within the time limits specified by the Open Meetings Act.

Lowther, prior to last week's council decision to fight the lawsuit, had informed council members that Judge Charles Farmer's summary judgment indicated the city officials could be found guilty separately if they encouraged and-or participated in a closed council session.

Voting for dropping the suit Saturday were council members Mary Ann Banks, Beverly McAnally, Jerry Canejo and Junior Block, the only four members who showed up. Absent were Jimmie Raspberry, Ray Cantrell and Mary Carter.

Last week, Cantrell and Raspberry had voted to continue the lawsuit, but Carter had voted to have it dismissed.

Asked to comment on council's apparent change of heart, Rush said, "I'm still concerned. When I found out that the city treasurer wanted to erase the minutes of that closed meeting, I considered that a breach of public trust."

"I can't help but wonder what else she's doing in view of her being the official who handles the public's money."

Rush said he was "happy" however, that council now seemed to be embarked on a consistent policy of posting meetings within specified time limits and refraining from further violations of the Open Meetings Act.

New baseball complex opens

Jack Moores, president of Romulus North Little League, (standing at mike), introduces local dignitaries at the recent opening of the little league's elaborate baseball complex, being constructed behind city Park No. 1. The plans call for five complete diamonds, with electric scoreboards, dugouts, scoring booths and many other extras, making the $250,000 project one of the best equipped in the area. Participating in the ceremonies were (left to right) Marie DeBuysscher, recreation director; Marge McCrory, recreation commission chairperson; Mary Ann Banks, mayor pro tem; Leonard Folmar, city clerk; Beverly McAnally, city council member; and Romulus Mayor William Oakley, who threw out the first ball officially opening the park. School employes ink pacts

An eight-percent salary increase and improvements in fringe benefits are included in new contracts ratified last week by the Romulus board of education and two union locals representing 177 supervisory and working members.

The approved agreement with Local 1917, comprised of three maintenance and operational supervisory personnel, was only for the period ending June 30, 1979. Negotiations for next school year will begin immediately, said Terrel M. LeCesne, director of employe and labor relations.

The contract with 174 members of Local 64, which includes bus drivers, custodians, cooks, maintenance workers, transportation personnel and clerical employes, was made retroactive to July 1, 1978. Except for reopening of wage negotiations in the last year of the contract, the pact covers a three-year period, LeCesne said.

Both locals will receive an eight-percent salary boost for the current school year. However, LeCesne explained, Local 1917 will open immediate wage talks for new increases for the coming school year.

For the 1979-80 school year, Local 64 members will get another two-percent salary raise, with a cost of living allowance ranging from 10 cents to 35 cents per hour.

In the last year of their contract, 1980-81, Local 64 members will reopen salary negotiations, he said.

In the area of fringe benefits, LeCesne said members of both groups will get a hike of $2,000 in their life insurance, a dental plan is being added to their medical insurance, and mileage rate for use of their personal cars has been boosted from 16 cents to 18 cents, per mile, he added.

Citizens organize against crime

Members of the Romulus Housing Task Force met recently with crime prevention officer Jerry Billiter (standing) to discuss plans for a community-wide neighborhood watch meeting tentatively scheduled for Thursday, June 21, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas J. Coleman Community Center on Beverly Road, just east of Wayne Road. The group is the fourth major neighborhood in the city to organize themselves to fight rising crime in their area. Members of the Task Force, pictured left to right are: Earlie Mosley, Cora Gregory, Karen Brown of Famiy and Neighborhood Services, Officer Billiter, Watch secretary Deanna Lovenduski, Dorothy Phenix, Ruth Gotcher, also of Family and Neighborhood Services, and Task Force chairperson, Mary Edwards. Dinner to honor 'Lothar'

A testimonial dinner Wednesday, June 20, will honor Lothar E. Konietzko, prize-winning chief photographer for Associated Newspapers, for 25 years of loyal and dedicated service to the newspaper chain and to residents of the six communities it serves.

The dinner, which is being sponsored by a Committee of Friends which includes local officials, businessmen and local, state and federal politicians, will be held at Lerights banquet room, 626 S. Wayne Rd., Westland. A cash bar will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Joe Benyo, vice president of the Michigan Press Photographers Association, will be master of ceremonies for the evening's festivities.

Winner of many photographic awards at the local, state and national level, Konietzko's smile and wit have endeared him to a multitude of residents in the ANP circulation area. His fondness for children and senior citizens have made him a favorite with those age groups.

His most prominent award came in 1965 when he was presented with the President's Medal by the National Press Photographers Association for meritorious service.

Critically injured in a November 1977 automobile crash and not expected to live, Konietzko astounded the medical team who worked on him and miraculously pulled through.

LOTHAR KONIETZKO

During World War II, he survived injuries sustained in a machine gun strafing and the crash of the fighter plane he was piloting.

In his native Germany as a young man, Konietzko earned a bachelor's degree in forestry, an occupation he followed for several years in the footsteps of his father. When he came to the United States, he turned a photographic hobby into a profession after he began working for Associated Newspapers.

Only recently, "Lothar", as he is known to friends and acquaintances alike, came back to work part-time after nearly two years of recovering from his near-fatal injuries. He plans to resume full-time work activities if and when his health permits.

Entitled "Lothar: 25 Years of dedicated community service", the banquet will cost $10 per person. Tickets can be obtained by writing "Friends of Lothar," P.O. Box 1, Wayne, Mich. 48184, or calling Paul Lada at 721-5700.

For your safety

Good Locks: Buy time, cause burglars to do time

NOTE: For your safety is an ongoing crime prevention column provided by the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police, a state-wide law enforcement association dedicated to greater police professionalism.

By JACK BROWN
President
Michigan Fraternal Order of Police

Proper locks for your doors, windows and doorwalls are your first line of defense against burglars and intruders. They make a difference, when installed and used, in encouraging or discouraging the criminal mind from selecting your home as a target. If you doubt it, just ask any member of the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police.

Most law enforcement officers classify most doors and locks as "3-minute" types — indicating the amount of time it would take only a fair break-in artist to get through them. After reading this article, we hope you may be able to put your home into the "10-minute" category.

First — know that if the locks on your home are five or more years old, they are outdated and may be unsafe, even if the knobs are still good. You should replace them.

With locks, as with other things, you tend to get what you pay for. The more expensive models usually are made of heavier metals and the inner parts are made with greater precision, which helps make them more effective. Most police officers are convinced that you shouldn't skimp here because of costs.

If your home is of recent vintage, the builder probably installed a key-in-the-knob type of spring latch. When you shut the door, the latching device is sprung automatically to hold the door shut and locked. But intruders can quickly and easily (in less than 30 seconds) overcome cheaper spring latch-type locks by simply slipping a plastic credit card through the crack and tripping the spring-operated latch to open even a locked door.

One quick and easy solution is to install a plate, extending at least 18 inches above and below the latch area to thwart a would-be card artist. Make sure such plates or mouldings are fastened securely so they cannot be pried off easily.

Another solution, of course, is to replace spring latch mechanisms with one that has a "dead-latch" feature. This type of lock features an immovable latch, or bolt, when locked — and it cannot be jimmied with a plastic card or other tools. Again, the quality versions have latches or bolts that extend deeply into the door frame — look for those that go in at least 1 inch. Some burglars use tools that can press door frames apart springing a lock with a short bolt.

A standard single-cylinder deadbolt lock opens from the outside with a key, from the inside with a thumbpiece — the major difference between it and the spring latch and the spring latch with "dead-latch" feature. This lock is best suited for entry doors with no glass or windows nearby. Burglars are known to break a nearby window and reach in to open the thumbpiece and the door handle to gain entry. This type of lock, though, with a 1-inch deadbolt length, and proper security precautions (grilles or screens) on nearby windows, is an effective deterrance.

A word of caution about "double cylinder" deadbolt locks which require two keys, one outside and one inside, to open them. From a police standpoint, their use in an unoccupied home (while you are away on vacation, for example), will help prevent a burglar from carrying out large items such as television sets and furniture — even if he can break in, say, through a window.

But fire officials are taking a close look at these locks. Most of them recommend keeping the inside key in the latch while occupants are sleeping — or at least within six feet of the door. You — as well as a burglar — cannot get out in case of an emergency. Weigh your security needs with common sense.

Newer features — commonly called "anti-panic-anti-burglary" double security locksets with instant locking release — also are now on the market. They combine all the security benefits of a single-cylinder deadlock and dead-latch door lock, with another vital safety feature. With this lock there is no need to open a door from the inside with a key or a thumbpiece. The mechanism allows you to open both of its locks — the deadbolt above and the regular spring latch mechanism below it — with one split-second twist of the interior knob.

The newer types of locks, incorporated into a door knob, tend to be more difficult to overcome. But such a lock should be checked regularly for they tend to loosen in their mountings — and a loosely mounted lock does encourage intruders.

Now, after all of this on locks and lock types, you should also know this: There is hardly a lockmaker in the business who is willing to bet that any lock is absolutely unpickable or cannot be overcome by the skilled, determined and well-equipped burglar.

You are fortunate that the average home is more threatened by opportunistic amateurs than by hardened professionals. We know the most a lock can do for you — even the best and most expensive types — is to buy time by making it exceedingly difficult for the intruder to force. That amount of time, from under 3 minutes to 10 minutes or more, can make it easier for our police officers to apprehend or thwart them.

You must remember, most burglars (by their own admission during interrogation) are out to do the least amount of work possible for the most gain. Most burglars admit they consider 3 minutes work on a lock or other security device to be their absolute maximum "safe" time.

Good locks, properly used, are the factor that forces a burglar to pass up your home and look for easy pickings elsewhere.

Consumers' Guideline answers her question

By LINDA JOY
Eexecutive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

The young woman wanted to keep her new sports car looking brand new for years. Although she'd heard that she should get it rustproofed, she really didn't know enough about it to make up her mind.

That's why she called the Consumers Council Guideline recently with questions about rustproofing.

As the Guideline counselor explained, a rustproofing shop uses a sealant to help keep rust from forming. Although the visible rust is the most obvious, most rust begins on the inner surfaces of the car. Consequently, these sections also need to be coated with the gelatin-like material rustproofers use to seal off the car from rust. To do this, a rustproofer either removes some of the decorative trim panels on the car or drills small holes in certain spots to gain access to the inside of the car.

A sealant material is then applied. This substance settles on the surface to form a protective coating against moisture and chemicals which cause rust.

Before deciding on a particular shop, consumers should ask to see some work which the rustproofer had done. The rustproofing solution should cover the seams and welded areas of the car. The rustproofer should be able to provide the names and telephone numbers of satisfied customers. Consumers can then call to see if these people are satisfied with the job.

One of the most important things to shop for is the warranty which is offered by the rustproofer. Misunderstandings about the terms and limitations of the warranty often lead to problems later between the shop and the customer.

Consumers should find out beforehand exactly which parts of the car are covered by the warranty. Some warranties cover the whole car while others only cover the parts of the car which are sprayed with the sealant. Some shops require the consumer to bring the car which are sprayed with the sealant. Some shops require the consumer to bring the car in for a periodic inspection. If this is the case, it is up to the consumer to ask if there is a charge for these check-ups.

If a nationally franchised rustproofing shop does the job, consumers should be sure the warranty is backed by the company itself — not just the individual franchise. This way, warranty service still can be obtained, if there is a move to another area.

Consumers who have questions on this or any other consumer topic can call the Consumers Council Guideline at 1-800-292-5680 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Handles wage talks for Romulus district

Ex-Inkster mayor does school bargaining

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Mayor Terrel M. LeCesne ended 12 years as a public servant last week when he resigned as the city's top elected official.

The 40-year-old LeCesne, who served in the part-time mayor's position since his election in 1975, cited his new job as personnel and employee relations manager in the Romulus Community Schools as his main reason for resigning.

He also resigned as a member of the Housing and Redevelopment Commission. Prior to his election as mayor, LeCesne was a city councilman from 1968-1975.

After the pledge of allegiance to the flag, LeCesne told the audience he had a statement to make. Even though he had tried to keep his resignation as quiet as possible, news of it leaked out over the weekend, and members of the audience knew what was coming.

Because of the demands of his new position with Romulus Schools in which he negotiates with five unions and more than 600 employees, LeCesne told his fellow councilmen on May 4 that he wanted to resign at the end of this month. However, increasing demands on his time, plus the fact he's attempting to complete his studies at the University of Michigan on a doctorate degree, prompted him to resign at Tuesday night's meeting.

He did it with reluctance and mixed feelings and his resignation was accepted "with regrets" by the council.

Reading from a prepared statement, LeCesne praised all those who had made his job as mayor a lot easier.

"For the past 12 years I have served the city in my capacity, first as a member of the board of zoning and housing appeals, as a city councilman and now as mayor of Inkster," he said. "Earlier this month I indicated to the council my intention to vacate my position as mayor of the city effective tonight.

"My decision to resign is due to the fact that I've accepted a new position with the Romulus Community Schools as their personnel and employee relations manager in February and have come to realize that I cannot do both jobs and give equal justice to both jobs."

Then he mentioned he was completing work on his doctorate and getting ready to write his dissertation this summer.

"It's simply impossible to do all, so in fairness to the city, Romulus and myself, I was forced to make a choice."

With the vote on the proposed charter just around the corner, some on the council and others were disappointed with the timing of LeCesne's resignation, although they understand completely his position and wish him well. An all-out battle is expected to be waged by those for the new charter and by those against it.

LeCesne told the Ledger-Star that perhaps his resignation at this time would work out for the best.

"Maybe the people of Inkster will now be able to take a good objective look at the proposed charter and not see it in the light of a Bivens versus LeCesne type of thing," he said Tuesday afternoon. Edward Bivens Jr. is the one LeCesne defeated in the 1975 mayoral race and may run again.

In his announcement Tuesday night, LeCesne praised and thanked the council for their support and confidence over the years.

Turning to his colleagues at the council table, he said: "You are truly professionals and a fine group to work with.

"Secondly, I'd like to thank all of the citizens of Inkster, not just supporters, for helping me to become a better person and hopefully a better public servant.

"To all of the city employees who helped to make my job easy and make me look good by doing their's so well. And last, but certainly not least, to my wife, Gale, who for the past four years especially, fielded all of my calls, ran interference and more importantly, filled in for me as a father to my two sons as I tended to the city's business."

LeCesne closed by saying: "I'm not sure just how much more they will see of me now, with five unions and more than 600 employees in Romulus School District to deal with, but I'm sure it will be more than before at least.

"Again, let me say thank you for the opportunity to serve you. Thank you for 3½ of the best years of my life."

When he finished his statement, LeCesne said he would entertain a motion to accept his resignation.

Councilman James Colleran said: "Without spending time to state why you should stay, I move we accept the mayor's resignation with regrets." He was supported by William Daniels, and it passed unanimously.

LeCesne then was appointed temporary chairman for the purpose of nominating someone to complete the unexpired six months of his term as mayor. Daniels was approved unanimously as Inkster's new mayor.

LeCesne then turned the gavel over to Daniels.

"This gavel may be small, but it sure is heavy," he said in reference to the responsibilities of the Mayor's position.

"Mr. Mayor, you've done a fine job," Daniels said in accepting the gavel. "You have kept the council straight and kept your temper and poise in difficult situations. I hope to serve as well as you have in unswervingly doing my duty."

LeCesne shook hands with each member of the council and waved goodbye before departing out of the council chambers as the small audience applauded.

Colleran was then nominated and unanimously approved as Mayor Pro-Tem.

Mayor steps down

Inkster Mayor Terrel M. LeCesne (left) hands gavel to Inkster Mayor Pro Tem William Daniels last week as he announced to city council and audience that he is resigning the office of mayor. LeCesne cited pressing duties of new promotion in Romulus school system from elementary principal to director of employe and labor relations, and his current work on a doctor's degree.

Annual benefit game to help MD victims

The fourth annual muscular dystrophy benefit softball game, which pits city hall employees against elected officials and administrators, will take place on Wednesday, June 20, 1979 at 7:15 p.m. at Elmer Johnson Park, located on Ozga Road between I-94 and Wick Roads in Romulus.

The classic confrontation provides spectators with ample opportunity to cheer on their political and non-political favorites and make a valuable contribution to help fight the crippling effects of the disease.

Tim Tomasik, a 17 year old, straight "A" student afflicted with the disease, will throw out the first ball to Romulus mayor William M. Oakley. Admittance to the game is free, but Romulus volunteer firemen will collect donations from those attending.

All funds received will be distributed locally, according to Jo Lynn DeBuysscher, co-organizer of the event.

In brief

July 4th parade set

Clowns, floats, marching bands, antique cars, fire engines, balloons, horses, dignitaries and all the traditional trappings of an Independence Day parade are scheduled to take place in Romulus again this year beginning at noon Wednesday, July 4, 1979.

Following the parade, which will follow Goddard Road from city hall to Kennedy Park, community residents are invited to bring a lunch to Elmer Johnson Park for an afternoon of picnicking and softball. The park is located on Ozga Road, between I-94 and Wick Road.

The day's festivities will conclude with a large fire-works display at the park starting at 9:30 p.m.

Staging for the parade will begin at 10 a.m. at city hall. Citizens of Romulus and surrounding communities interested in participating in the Fourth of July celebration are asked to contact Donna Lee Zavitz or Jay Young at 941-0666.

Clerk hopes to cut costs

If Romulus Clerk Leonard J. Folmar is successful, the city will soon have at least one electronic typewriter, which although expensive, will prove to be a "cost-saving" device for his office and others in city government.

Priced at roughly $5,000, the machine can duplicate any typed material from a stored memory bank. Folmar explained it can be used in preparation of minutes of various government departments and in preparation and changes of city ordinances.

"Currently, in the clerk's office, minutes are typed a minimum of four times. Using the electronic typewriter, we would only have to type to original and then make repeat copies," he said.

Folmar will report back to council, giving it the funding sources it requested, various purchase options, and names of various companies which manufacture similar machines.

The clerk said purchase of an electronic typewriter would eliminate the need for hiring of additional typists by the city.

New subdivision eyed

A residential home builder has approached the city of Romulus, expressing an interest in buying urban renewal property in the north end of the community for construction of up to 250 houses.

Joseph C. Hasenau of Hasenau Homes, Northville, met with the city attorney and city engineer to identify sites for three model homes he would like to build on 65 to 70 x 125 foot lots in an area bounded by Beverly, Van Born, Howe and Chamberlain.

The area contains some houses and some sites previously cleared of rundown dwellings.

Hasenau will report back to council which will make the decision of whether to sell him the land. Should he be permitted to buy the land, he will have to go through customary channels to have his construction project approved.

Student house for sale

The Romulus Community Schools building trades class has done it again! The 24 students have worked six hours a day this entire school year to complete a house which is now ready for sale.

The display and product of their carpentry, masonry, electrical and plumbing skills may be seen at 37625 Tyler Rd. in Romulus, a quarter mile west of Ozga Road. The home has three bedrooms and den with two and a half baths. This quad-level home as a brick and aluminum sided exterior and a family room with a large fireplace. The home is large (2,010 square feet) with a two-car garage. The location is convenient, a short distance from the new Wick Elementary and North Junior High schools. All lines -- water, sewer, and gas -- are in.

The instructors will be available to answer any questions.

Bakery sets opening

Romulus Home Bakery will hold its official grand opening at 2 p.m. Monday, June 18, at 12115 Huron River Dr., Romulus.

Mrs. Betty Rzempala, owner, said her bakery will specialize in old-fashioned bakery and pastry recipes, leaving out commercial preservatives.

Trash bags available

Due to popular demand, the extra-thick, extra-strong outdoor trash bags offered for sale by the Romulus Beautification Committee during the recently-completed spring cleanup campaign, are again available to the public at Romulus City Hall. Student car bugs win third in state

Paul Lewkowicz and Steve Losacco, Romulus Senior High School students, have been busy this year under the hoods of cars. For their efforts, they received third place in the recent state Plymouth Trouble-Shooting Contest for student mechanics.

To compete in the contest, the students took a written examination covering all aspects of automotive technology, which placed them in the top 10 of 65 schools in the state of Michigan. These top 10 schools then participated in the hands-on competition held at Oakland Mall in Troy, Mich.

The hand-on competition consisted of students in teams of two working on 10 identical 1979 Plymouth Volare cars. All 10 cars had identical malfunctions intentionally placed in the engine. The students attempted to find the malfunctions and set the vehicle specifications to emission standards. They were judged on their written scores, their ability to correct malfunctions, and the time taken to complete the contest.

Lewkowicz is presently employed at Lincoln Park Engineering as a machinist and will work full time there after graduation. He plans to attend Henry Ford Community College this fall to study a tool and die career.

Losacco is presently working at Carnwath Electric in Royal Oak as an electrical apprentice and will continue the part-time job. He has been accepted by Eastern Michigan University where he will major in accounting.

Miss Flemming performed a medley of tunes from the Broadway musical drama "West Side Story" by David Sondheim and Leonard Bernstein, an arrangement she and her organ teacher, Cass Neshkoff, created. The festival, sponsored by music dealers from across the country and Yamaha, a major manufacturer of organs, is the first step towards the U.S. finals, which will be held in Los Angeles, Calif., June 24. Presenting Miss Flemming with her award was Robert Dove, Yamaha executive in charge of the festival.

FRIENDS AT THE OTHER END

The happy fact is that meeting people is easier when you are traveling than it is at home. You'll meet them in cable cars, ferries, sightseeing buses, at your hotel. But did you ever think to yourself: "If only I knew someone who lives here—how much more rewarding would be the look into the real life of the country. Well, there is no reason why it can't be arranged—even before you make your travel arrangements.

Ask your friends if you can act as a courier for them to their friends abroad. When you can say, "I'll bring your greetings and a small token from Mr. or Mrs. So-and So," you won't feel embarrassed calling on a stranger expecting a gesture of hospitallty.

The key to hospitality all over the world may lie in your professional connections or hobby interests. Writing to a club, association, or organization you're interested in before you leave home can lead to all sorts of meetings. One of the great treasures of travel is people as well as places.

Fiscal report rejected

A fiscal report from the Wayne County Board of Auditors meant eventually for consideration by the State Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) has been disapproved by the County Board of Commissioners.

Sitting as the Ways and Means Committee, the commissioners rejected the report that forecast a potential $19.5 million deficit based on departmental expenitures during the first four months of this fiscal year, but also anticipating supplemental appropriations to cover unallocated spending.

The commissioners instead asked for revisions in the report that would more clearly identify and separate expected over-expenditures from actual budget allocations decided last December.

On Board Chairman Richard E. Manning's recommendation for more study, the report was sent back to Ways and Means from a full board. It also was Manning's Ways and Means motion that returned the report to the auditors for charge.

"The auditors should restudy the report. It reflects overspending by the courts and the Sheriff, and indicates their failure to abide by the orders of this Board in its budget message," Manning said.

Manning said that if the board approved the report as submitted: "It would be saving that regardless of who spends what, we will fund it. It would seem that we are afraid to say that those who do overspend do it at their own peril.

"We have already said (to all departments), 'You must contain your spending within the allowed limits we have announced over and over.' Why do we have to repeat this 50 to 100 times a year?"

In urging referral back to the auditors, Manning reiterated influence of the MFC and Gov. Milliken on the Wayne County financial crisis. Under threat of what is more-or-less receivership, the MFC this fiscal year permits the county only minor budget changes, and Milliken says he will deny proposed state aid without some fundamental re-organization and a firm show of more budget responsibility.

"The Governor is playing 'hard ball', and in the absence of some positive action on our part, he will veto or say no to us," Manning emphasized. "We need this different kind of fiscal review to segregate those who have spending problems, so that the Governor will not be saying no to us, but will be saying no to those who have not been authorized to spend."

He said the county is "realistically" only about $13 or $14 million out of balance, "but if we give up $6-7 million more we will have to tell employees in other departments that they must go because they are not as important as the courts."

Commissioner Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia) called the $19.5 million projection inappropriate.

"We are not in a deficit and will not be until all our money is gone. What we have budgeted was published in a big yellow book that is our constitutional obligation. We want a report that will clearly tell the MFC about overexpenditures, and let the courts and the Sheriff explain away those amounts."

Added Mrs. Dumas: "It is not an appropriation deficiency, but in reality a projected cost-overun."

Extension Service to offer behavior modification class

Eating habits are among the most persistent, and hardest to control of all the habits we develop in our lifetime, according to Dr. June L. Sears, Michigan State University Extension home economist. economist.

She says the habits are deeply imbedded in one's whole life experiences and are subject to a myriad of psychological, sociological, and economic forces as well. They are part of our whole life style, our whole way of living.

Eating patterns also are contagious. Psychologists tell us no one is singularly responsible for his own behavior. People are the products of their environments — the subjects of all the circumstances and influences that have surrounded their lives. Just as there are no "self-made" men, there are no completely "self-made" people.

Did your family place a great deal of emphasis on food? Was your mother especially proud of her cooking? Did she show her love for you by baking favorite cakes and pies when you came home from school? Were you rewarded with sweets or other favorite foods when you behaved well?

Dr. Sears will be teaching the class "Behavior Modification - Weight Control" at the Southland Center Auditorium, 23000 Eureka, Taylor, on Thursday mornings for five weeks, beginning June 14. The classes will be from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Registration fee is $10 for the 5-week class. For more information call the Family Living Education Department of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension office at 721-6566 or 563-2950.

Bike path grows

There's good news for bicyclists of all ages who enjoy cycling in Western Wayne County.

Bicycle enthusiasts soon will be able to pedal down a 17 ½ mile bikepath running the entire length of Edward N. Hines Drive from Northville to Dearborn.

Presently, cyclists can use a bikepath that runs along Hines Drive for seven miles from a point just south of Seven Mile Road in Northville to Newburg Road in Livonia.

But $150,000 worth of construction will begin late this summer or fall on a 10½ mile extension of that bikepath from Newburg Road to the terminus of Hines Drive at Ford Road in Dearborn.

This construction project by the Wayne County Road Commission is made possible by an amendment to the capital outlay budget that was passed by the legislature last year. Rep. Richard Young of Dearborn Heights and Sen. William Faust of Westland worked on passage of that amendment, which provided $350,000 for construction of the bikepath.

Of that $350,000 sum, $200,000 is to be used to secure a matching $200,000 federal grant, which brings the total cost for the construction project to $550,000. The federal grant money will hopefully be secured sometime this June.

The Hines Drive bikepath extension is important for a couple of reasons, Faust said.

"First, bicycling is a booming recreational activity, and bike riders need safe areas to do their riding," he explained. "The scenic and recreational areas along Hines Drive are perfect for cycling, but somewhat unsafe because of the high volume of motor traffic along Hines Drive.

"Bikepaths, which are eight feet wide and constructed of asphalt, provide safe avenues of travel for both bicyclists and the many joggers who also use the paths.

"Secondly, because of the growing pinch on gasoline supplies, more and more people will be seeking recreation closer to home. Extension of the Hines Drive bikepath will add another recreational activity in the Hines Park area for people of Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Dearborn Heights, Dearborn and several other adjacent communities."

The bikepath extension might even make bicycles an effective alternative mode of transportation for work, school and shopping, he added, saying that the bikepath extension will terminate at Ford Road near Evergreen in Dearborn, close to Henry Ford Community College, the University of Michigan - Dearborn, the Fairlane Town Center and Greenfield Village.

"Hopefully, in the future, the bikepath can be extended to lead directly to these areas," he said.

Additionally, bicyclists using the 34-mile bikepath which runs along the I-275 Freeway from Novi to Monroe soon will be able to cross over to the existing Hines Drive bikepath. Hines Drive and I-275 intersect near the City of Plymouth, and connections between the two bikepaths now are under construction. Target date for the completion of the connections is this September.

ARE YOU AWARE

The True Foundation

NIV I Corinthians 3:1—Brothers, I could not address you as spiritual, but as worldly...mere infants in Christ. 3.2—I gave you milk, not solid food, for you were not yet ready. 3:3—You are still worldy, for since there is jealousy and quarreling among you, are you not worldy? Are you not acting like mere men. 3:10—By the grace God has given me, I laid a foundation as an expert builder, and someone else is building on it. But each one should be careful how he builds.
3:11—For no one can lay any foundation other than the one already laid which is Jesus Christ.
3:12—If any man builds on this foundation using gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay or straw, 3:13—his work will be shown for what it is, because the day will bring it to light. It will be revealed with fire, and the fire will test the quality of each man's work. If what he has built survives, he will receive his reward.

I Corinthians 3:18—Do not deceive yourselves. If any one of you thinks he is wise by the standards of this age, he should become a 'fool' so that he may be wise. 3:19—For the wisdom of this world is foolishness in God's sight. As it is written, 'He catches the wise in their craftiness.'

Dear friends, are you living your life to please your friends or anyone other than God? Are you still nibbling around the edges of God's word? Are you a Christian by the process of elimination? Not a Buddhist, not a Moslem, etc., so I must be Christian!

The highways and streets we drive along have many warning signs we immediately recognize, telling us well in advance that potential danger lies ahead. The human body has a similar set of signals. These critical symptoms are often the forerunners of more serious diseases . . . diseases that can be averted if the eight danger signs are heeded in time.

The 8 Danger Signs indicate spinal pressures and tensions on vital nerves:
Headaches
Loss of sleep
Pain between the shoulders
Stiffness or pain in lower back
Stiffness of the neck
Numbness in the arms or hands
Numbness or pain in the legs
Painful joints

Consult your Family Chiropractor

Every occupation creates its own stresses and strains, creating spinal pressure and tension on delicate, sensitive nerves. This is true of office workers as it is of heavy construction laborers; of housewives as it is of children at play. These nervous system "short circuits" adversely affect normal nerve energy flow, robbing the vital organs of their proper controlling force. Chiropractic care releases this latent force and restores the circumstances wherein normal function of these vital organs may be resumed.

Protect your health— See your Chiropractor now!

When any one of these important danger signs appears in a member of your family, you should call your family chiropractor immediately. With quick action on your part, and the training and ability of the chiropractor, it is entirely possible that pain and ill-feeling will be replaced by glowing good health.

Things that matter

...Searching for evidence

By George Plagenz
United Feature Syndicate

Some explorers are going to try to scale Mount Ararat again this summer in the hope of locating Noah's ark.

This has been going on for some time now, so don't get your hopes up, all you Bible believers.

Of course, if the ark were found, it wouldn't necessarily prove that all the details of the Bible story of the flood are true. But if it could be established that the ark itself dates from early Old Testamant times, it might be considered good evidence that there was indeed a great flood of some sort at that time in history.

How else would a boat get to the top of a mountain?

Some ancient stories are no more than folk tales, made up like Aesop's fables. Others are based on an actual event — what we might call a historical novel today. Some are myths that present a truth in story form with a pseudo-historical setting, such as in the story of Jonah and the whale.

While some scholars have put the story of Noah's ark into the folk-tale category, thefinding of the ark might cause them to revise their theory and treat the Bible account of the flood as a historical novel of sorts.

Another story whose origins Bible scholars have long puzzled over concerns the Tower of Babel. In the past, some have doubted that there ever was a Tower of Babel.

The new light was shed on the mystery.

Archeologists who dug out the ancient city of Babylon in Iraq in the 1920s found numerous tower-like structures. Experts now believe that the largest of them — 300 feet square at the foundation — was the biblical Tower of Babel.

The evidence suggests that it was built by people known as the Sumerians, who came to the flat country of Babylon from a mountainous region to the south.

It had long been the Sumerians' hope that God would some day come down to earth, using the mountains of their native country as a stepladder on which to descend. Now, finding no mountains in their new home of Babylon, they decided to build their own stepladder, consisting of brick towers of varying heights.

Later, when the Jews were marched into captivity in Babylon from their pastoral home 800 miles away, they were astonished at the diversity of languages and religions that they found in this teeming cosmopolitan city.

Seeing the towers pointing up toward the sky, they put two and two together. Or they thought they did.

Their explanation, which was ingenious (if also inaccurate), went like this:

The Babylonians had been trying to build a tower on which they could climb to heaven. This displeased God, who conceived a way to fillthier plan.

The workmen on the tallest tower, who up to this time all spoke the same language, went to the job one day and discovered to their bewilderment that they were speaking different languages.

When a laborer spoke to the man next to him, the man couldn't understand him. And he couldn't understand the other fellow.

Under the circumstances, it was impossible to go on with the construction. Work on the tower ground to a sudden halt.

In this way the Jews accounted both for the presence of the mysterious skyscraper and for the great variety of languages they heard being spoken in their home-in-exile.

The Bible says: "That is why it is called Babel (that is, Babylon), because the Lord there made a babble of the language of all the world."

Oops, we goofed!

In last week's edition, a portion of the story by Evelyn Reid Floyd, was missing.

The missing portion of the text should have read:

After my prayer with God, I asked Him to confirm my vision through His Holy Word, the Bible. He lead my hand unknowingly...to Revelation, Chapter 13, Verse 1. It reads: "And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a BEAST rise up out of the sea..."

This was my confirmation from God and also a continuation from the end of my vision. God said: "Tell it, Tell it...Obey, obey, obey!"

4-H youth agent named to council

William M. Mills, Wayne County 4-H youth agent, has been appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland to serve on the advisory council for the National Arboretum in Washington, D.C.

Mills will serve on the committee until Oct. 1, 1980.

As a member of the 17-person council, Mills will advise and counsel the Department of Agriculture on the needs of the Arboretum. The council also recommends methods of accomplishing the historic landmark's immediate and long-term objectives in research and public education.

Mills, who has served as 4-H youth agent in Wayne County for the past six years, said his appointment to the national council will benefit Wayne County.

"I feel I will gain valuable knowledge about community planning and beautification programs through my involvement with the National Arboretum," he said. "I hope to bring this knowledge back and put it to use in our neighborhood communities."

The arboretum, established in 1927 by Congress, is designed to serve as a research and education facility for the nation's plant-oriented public. The institution serves a wide variety of audiences including nurserymen, homeowners, the scientific community, educational institutions and city planners.

Accomplishments at the National Arboretum include the "brickyard" beautification project and greenhouse research facilities in Washington, D.C. Plans are also underway for a National Herb Garden and a Legendre Deciduous Shrub Garden. The arboretum is open to the public.

Council's 'scrimping' minimizes layoffs

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

A bonus of $675,000 in newly "found" revenue, plus a decision to cut the ending balance to less than .2 percent, has allowed the Westland City Council to approve a fiscal budget that reduced layoffs in the City to only eight.

Originally, it looked like some 35 persons would lose their jobs, not to mention more than a dozen vacant jobs (the result of a hiring freeze) that would not be filled.

Those jobs still won't be filled, but the council has managed to fund many more jobs than expected when the mayor first submitted his proposed budget April 1. Since April, revenue sources, particularly state shared revenues, have increased.

But even as the council passed this budget Monday night, the city leaders warned of severe times and the inevitability of many layoffs next year, and possibly still this year, if any unforeseen expenses arise.

An ending fund balance in a budget is set aside to take care of those unexpected expenses that come up through the year. Leaving only a $27,000 ending balance out of a $15.8 million general fund is "frightening," as Council President Robert Wagner put it.

And Mayor Thomas Taylor warned the citizens that if any unforeseen expenses do come up, causing the balance to go below $25,000, he will have to lay off employees.

The warning included a direct message to the three public safety unions whose contracts are not settled (negotiations have been going on for nearly a year). Two of those unions, the Westland Police Officers Association (WPOA) and Fire Fighters Association, are meeting with the city in last-ditch efforts to bargain contracts, but there is a strong likelihood of arbitration, especially with the WPOA. The other police union, the Lieutenants and Sergeants Association, has not been negotiating, since their wage package hinges on the WPOA settlement.

Taylor said he has budgeted seven percent economic increases for those contract settlements, and if the final percentage is higher, the money to pay for them will come from layoffs. In effect, he put the responsibility for layoffs within the ranks onto the unions.

"During council deliberations over the past two months, the unions made presentations to the council. A common thread through those presentations was opposition to layoffs because of the effect they would have on the community," Taylor said. "The council has found ways to keep almost all those positions, and in doing so has put the city into the toughest financial position it has ever been in.

"The council and administration made a sincere good faith effort, and now the responsibility is on the bargaining units to show good faith."

The adopted budget contains no layoffs in the fire department (although some positions would remain unfilled), three layoffs in police (nine had been proposed), and four or five in Local 1602 (whose contract already is settled).

The presidents of the three public safety unions, all present at the meeting, were pleased that the proposed layoff list was so drastically reduced, but angry that the mayor is placing the burden of failure of the city budget on the bargaining units.

"None of us deserved those comments by the mayor," said Steve Frazer, WPOA president. "It was an implied threat."

Not only will contract settlement affect the budget, but any unexpected crisis could set the adopted budget on its ear.

But, Wagner explained that "the main consensus of the council was to put as many people back to work as possible."

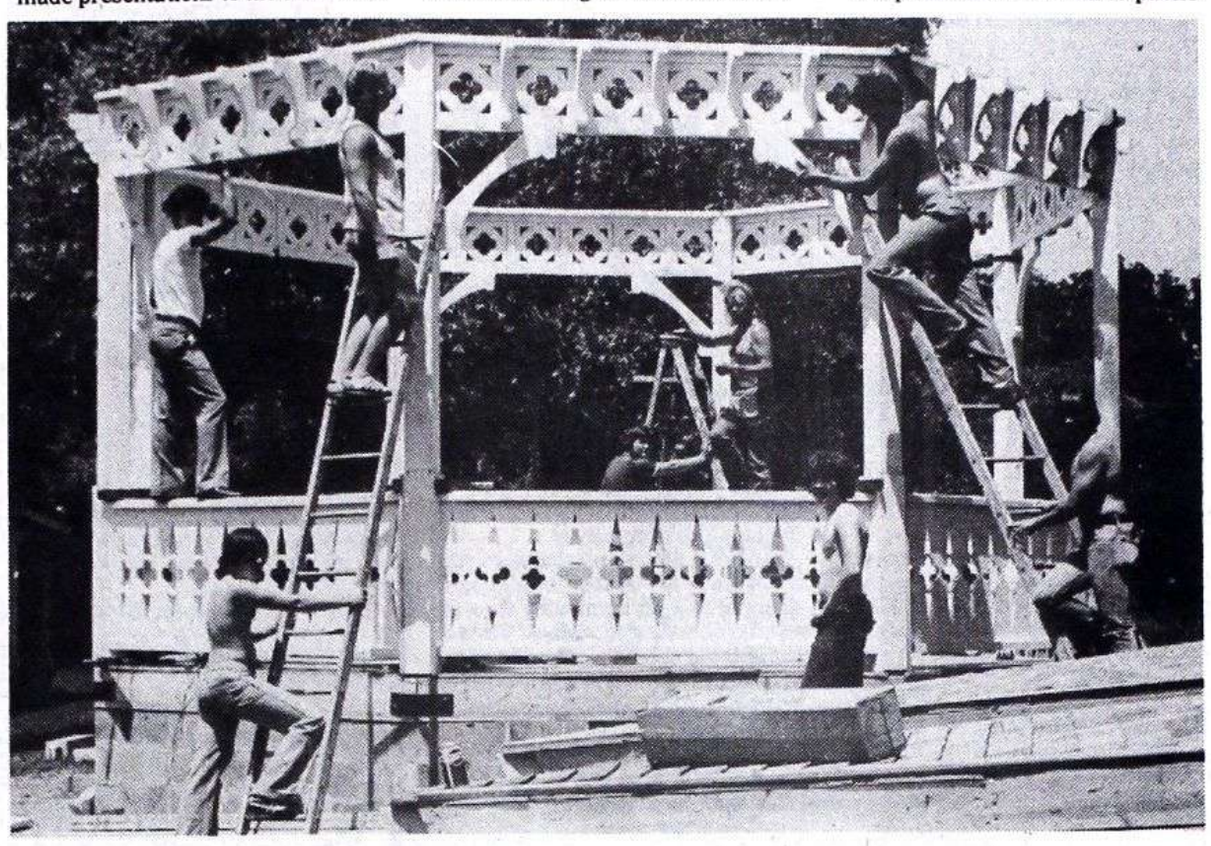
It was loss of $850,000 in federal CETA funds that caused the largest decrease in revenue this year. Next year, there is another probable loss of funding, $850,000 in revenue sharing, that the city expects, the council pointed out. So the council is warning a full year in advance that the worst is yet to come.

As mentioned, the vote was to keep the Fire Department operating the emergency rescue, service, with the provision that residents be charged $25 per run. It is not uncommon for cities to charge for the service to offset costs.

The city also will be able to retain its $140,000 traffic grant in the police department now, because the city showed "maintenance of effort" in pouring over the budget, and devoted Saturday and Sunday to day-long final sessions.

Most of the council adjustments had to do with adding employees, and cutting program expenses such as educational fund (for department heads), a community promotion program for the police department, and a decrease in allocation for professional services in engineering.

Wagner noted that some council members spent as many as 60 hours



Gazebo goes

John Glenn High School students built it, took it apart, then put it back together. The gazebo now sets in its new home at the historic Mill Race Village in Northville. MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

A recent survey of musical habits of Americans has come up with some interesting conclusions. For instance, females play the piano more than any other instrument and come from the South more often than other parts of the country. Another bit of trivia is that most electric guitar players live in the East, while most accoustical guitar players live in the West. The banjo, ukeleles, and recorders are each played by about 300,000 Americans and just about everyone in the country listens to music at home. We are indeed a musical nation.
If you and your family have been listeners all your lives, turn off the stereo and turn onto a whole new world of fun and creativity with an instrument from DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484. Inquire about our rental purchase plan which allows you to try the instrument of your choice in the privacy of your own home before you decide to buy. Master Charge and Visa honored.
MUSIC TIP:
Make an outdoor summer concert special by bringing a picnic meal. Eat before the concert so as not to disturb your neighbors.

County sets up central enrollment center

Wayne County has opened a new central enrollment services center for residents seeking employment under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Known as the Wayne County Office of Manpower's Central Intake Unit, the center is located in J Building on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise at Michigan and Merriman Roads in Westland.

The new center will permit WCOM staff members to assess each individual applicant for participation in any of the more than 65 programs run under the seven distinct title classifications of CETA funding. Those who qualify for CETA may be placed in job training situations that range from governmental work to audio-visual technician duties.

Arthur Lewis, director of WCOM, said the qualifications for participation vary by program category, but certain criteria are relevant to all CETA applicants. Lewis said that all applicants must be:

— Residents of Wayne County (excluding Detroit, Dearborn and Livonia) for at least 30 days;

— Unemployed for a substantial period of time (usually 10 to 20 weeks prior to application);

— Economically disadvantaged, having an annual family income that ranges from a maximum of $3,400 for a family of one to $10,000 for a family of six.

Individuals who meet these criteria and are interested in a CETa job should contact the Central Intake Unit at 326-6130 for additional information, he added.

Of the new center WCOM Deputy Director Edward R. Koch said: "The new Central Intake Unit permits us to more fully serve the needs of CETA applicants in a location closer to their homes. The center affords us the opportunity to offer them the full range of CETA training programs and supportive services. We now have a better chance to place participants in the training situation most beneficial to each individual."

The CETA legislation originally was passed by Congress in 1973 to provide training and eventual placement opportunities to individuals who could be classified as "hard-core unemployed" and-or economically disadvantaged. Congress passed the act in response to the high unemployment rate prevalent at the time. It has continued as a training program designed to ease the unemployment rate and provide its participants with salable job skills through special instructional programs and on-the-job training.

Know your law

(This is one in a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

By ATT. GEN. FRANK KELLEY

Each year the insurance needs of Michigan's elderly citizens grow as the Social Security Administration increases deductibles and co-pay requirements for the elderly. This means the cost of health care — for both hospitals and physicians — are increasing.

To alleviate the possibility of large medical payments and reduce the possible financial burden of such costs, those who rely on medicare can purchase medicare complementary coverage, which will pay all or part of the deductible and co-pay requirements for the elderly.

In the past year there have been major developments affecting medicare recipients who generally live on fixed incomes. One such development occurred in February 1978, when Michigan Blue Cross and Blue Shield changed policy and refused to insure medicare recipients who had not previously been insured by the company.

I immediately instituted legal action to prevent the Blues, refusing to insure medicare recipients. Since Blue Cross and Blue Shield presently have 70 percent of the medicare complementary market — and their present rate is the lowest for this coverage — the outcome of this lawsuit was extremely important to those relying on medicare.

Another major development is the Michigan Legislature's enactment of a law requiring all commercial insurance companies to provide insurance to all elderly citizens who apply.

Therefore, at the present time, any senior citizen of this state receiving medicare benefits may purchase medicare complementary insurance from Blue Cross and Blue Shield or from any other commercial insurance company.

There have been, however, many reported instances of fraud committed upon unsuspecting medicare recipients who are sold useless insurance policies, or policies whose combined benefits are practically useless.

Therefore, if you are interested in purchasing medicare complementary insurance, I suggest using caution. As I have pointed out, Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage has the lowest premium rates. The cost of the insurance is $13.83 per month.

You can obtain more information by calling a local Blue Cross or Blue Shield office or your personal commerical insurance agent. If you have questions or problems about the coverage offered, or suspect that you have been defrauded, contact the Insurance Bureau, of the State of Michigan.

YWCA hosts Motorama

The public is invited to a free "Motorama," this will be staged this Saturday at the YWCA of Western Wayne County.

Adults and teens 15 years and up will be able to participate actively in a bevy of defensive driving skill activities.

Motorama will be divided up into three parts. The first part will cover emergency driving situations and gas saving skills through a film and lecture by Jack Higgins, owner of Celtic Enterprises, an accredited Michigan driving school.

Part II offers participants the opportunity to test their own psychomotor efficiency by moving through a series of testing machines. Tests to be featured include assessing night vision, glare vision and glare recovery, depth perception, brake reaction, steadiness, visual acuity, color blindness and peripheral vision.

Part III will give each participant the chance to climb behind the wheel of a car on the YW range and test out actual car control positioning and recovery.

Motorama will open from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and repeated from 1 to 3 p.m.

Interested participants should call the YWCA at 561-4110 so that sufficient staff and cars will be available.

The YWCA also offers year-round driver education classes for teens and adults.

The summer schedule for teens will be from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. or 6 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday for three weeks. Starting dates are June 18, July 9 and 30.

Teen classes at $110 per student include 30 hours of classroom instruction, range practice and observation and six hours of actual driving, in accordance with state law.

Adult driving classes are held on a monthly basis, starting on the first Saturday or third Thursday. Those classes cost $98 and include four hours of classroom instruction, six hours of lab observation in the car in groups of three and six hours behind the wheel.

The YWCA is located at 26279 Michigan Avenue, between Beech Daly and John Daly in Inkster. To register call 561-4110.

HAROLD REDISKE JR.
WHO CAN ONE TURN TO IN ONE'S DEEPEST SORROW?
Doctors are surrounded by the sadness of many an irreversible and fatal illness. They've learned through their schooling and experience how best to deal with grief situations. Ministers are well-read and experienced in grief-therapy and belong to the family circle as friends and counselors.
Doctors and ministers can help. They are professionals who have given over their lives to helping families in emergency, sudden sadness and mourning.
Depending on the individual circumstances, you can turn to each professional for his particular assistance, For the assurance that everything that could possibly be done was done - your family doctor can be of unquestionable aid.
For consolation and aid in working through the mourning process, your minister's assistance can be invaluable.
We are also at your service for whatever information and personal aid we can provide - in obtaining necessary forms, contacting relatives, insurance companies, unions or Social Security offices for benefits to which you may be entitled

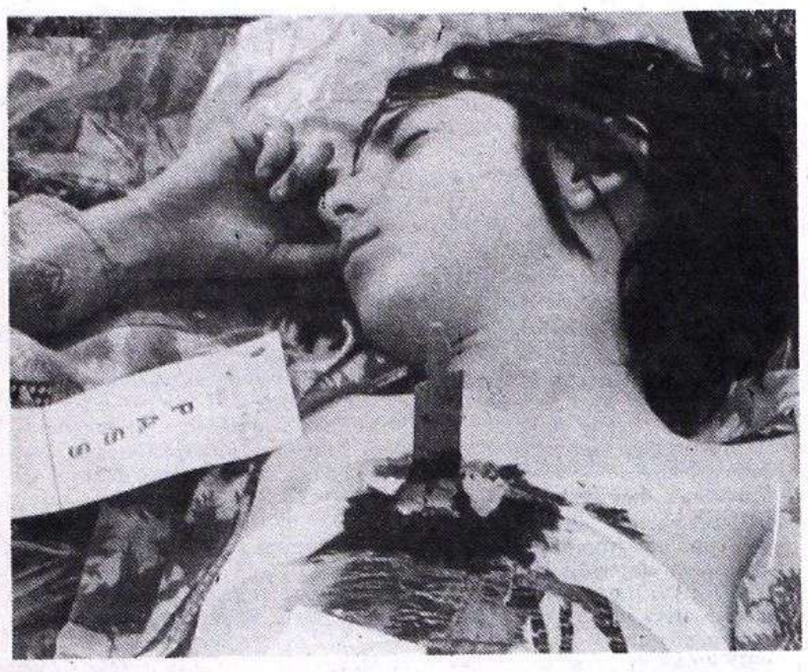
Incumbents stay on WCISD board

Two incumbent members of the Board of Education of the Wayne County Intermediate School District have been re-elected. Neither was opposed in the biennial election.

Mrs. Geraldine Joyner, currently president of the board and a former member of the Livonia Board of Education, was voted a full 6-year term. She has served on the board since 1975 when she was appointed to fill a vacancy.

Richard R. Muse, O.D., a member of Van Buren Board of Education, was elected to the remaining four years of the term of Earl D. Gabriel who resigned in December 1977. Muse was appointed to fill the vacancy until this year's election.

The five members of the board of the Wayne County Intermediate School District are elected by local boards of education in Wayne County with each board casting one vote. County board members serve staggered 6-year terms.



Disaster!

It didn't really happen, but it could. And in order to be ready for the worst, the Wayne County Emergency Disaster Planning and Coordinating Committee held a realistic mock disaster drill last week. The disaster was a two-school bus and train collision in Livonia, with students from Emerson, Franklin and Whittier schools volunteering to be victims. The students were made up with appropriate injuries and strewn at the site of the wreck, while local emergency rescue teams from area fire departments, police departments, railroad and county road employees and private ambulance services arrived at the scene to pick up the pieces. The rescue teams transported the injured to area hospitals to test their emergency preparedness. All the while, evaluators were observing how the disaster was handled, and will prepare critiques on the performance of the professionals. Among the participating rescue divisions were the Westland and Wayne fire departments.—ANP Photos by Tom Greenwood.

7A. Motion by McAnally, supported by Carter, to adopt Resolution No. 79-209:

RESOLUTION 79-209

WHEREAS: The Wayne County Metropolitan Airport is conspicuously located at the geometric center of the City of Romulus; subsequently said air facilities concerns must, obviously, be shared by the City of Romulus. Likewise, the concerns of the City of Romulus must be shared by the Detroit Wayne County Metropolitan Airport; and
WHEREAS: Safety equipment should be of highest priority for the Detroit Wayne County Metropolitan Airport and the City of Romulus has been demonstrated to be the protection of the health, safety and welfare of the individuals they serve; and
WHEREAS: A long standing concern at the Detroit Wayne County Metropolitan Airport has been the need to modernize the Air Traffic Control Equipment currently in use; and
WHEREAS: It has been demonstrated that most essential to the assurance of the safety of air travelers, is efficient, dependable air traffic control equipment; and
WHEREAS: It is unconscionable to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Romulus, that the Federal Aviation Association would compromise the safety of a single air traveler by delaying the replacement of outdated air traffic control equipment, a compromise which could result in the loss of hundreds of air travelers lives and-or untold number of lives of citizens of the City of Romulus, or citizens of surrounding communities; and
WHEREAS: The Federal Aviation has funded and continues to approve expansion to the Detroit Wayne County Metropolitan Airport encouraging expanded air travel; subsequently, disproportionately increasing opportunity for disaster; and

WHEREAS: It is the studied finding of the Mayor and City Council of the City of Romulus that when comparing elaborate studies intended to support new construction, expansion, and escalated air travel with the obvious need to provide modern air travel with the obvious need to provide modern air travel control equipment, there is no question as to what must be provided first, the City Council of the City of Romulus cannot accept less than priority being given to the protection of the public's health, safety and welfare; and replace the antiquated equipment currently in use at the Detroit Wayne
WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus believes it is totally inadequate that the Federal Aviation Association abrogate its responsibilities to the public with comments indicating that the airport has a good safety record. Prior to March 28, 1979, Three Mile Island was thought to have a good safety record.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the city of Romulus, in behalf of the 30,000 residents of our community and the 4,000,000 residents of our region, that we implore, if not demand, that the Federal Aviation Association and-or the Wayne County Road Commission assume, carry out, their responsibility to the public and take steps forthwith to replace the anticipated equipment currently in use at the Detroit Wayne County Metropolitan Airport.
BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution and copies of the May 7, 1979 news article concerning this issue be forwarded to President Jimmie C. Carter, State Senators Donald Riegle and Carl Levin, U.S. Representative William Ford, Chairman of the Federal Aviation Association, Michael Barry, Chairman of the Wayne County Road Commission, Richard E. For excellence, innovation

County wins 8 NACO awards

Wayne County has won eight national achievement awards from the National Association of Counties (NACO) for excellence and innovation in county government programs.

The county was notified of the awards in a letter from Bernard F. Hillenbrand, executive director of NACO, who said the awards will be presented during the 1979 annual conference in Kansas City July 14-18.

In praising Wayne County, Hillenbrand said the achievement awards program was developed to give national recognition to progressive county programs which demonstrate improvement in government service.

Hillenbrand emphasized that NACO award-winning cases are distributed to other counties to serve as examples of quality programs.

The winning programs in Wayne County, which have contributed to better public and personal safety and more comprehensive health care, include:

— Wayne County Sheriff's Executive Protection Program, commonly called POP, under the direction of Sgt. Raymond Meggee, is in its third year of training police agencies from around the county in anti-terrorist procedures. Conducted at the former Wayne County Child Development Center, the program has trained more than 800 police in sophisticated terrorist tactics, including helicopter, parachute and bomb attacks.

— The Wayne County Office on Aging Tele-Care program helps older people live alone without danger. A telephone call at a prearranged hour provides a regular check on the person's well being.

— Mock Disaster Drills through the Wayne County Road Commission tests the coordination of fire fighters, rescue teams, military aviation personnel and professional hospital personnel at 11 Wayne and Washtenaw County hospitals and private emergency ambulance services in the event of a real disaster.

— The Vial of Life program through the Wayne County Board of Commissioners provided kits which contained medical information sheets for each family member to be placed in a small pill bottle and kept in the family refrigerator. The purpose was to assist medical crews in a home emergency.

— Cooperative Reimbursement Program, a program of the Friend of the Court, Family Support Division that has saved more than $100 million during the last six years. The program helps enforce support obligations of absent parents whose families receive public assistance.

— Dental Health Care Center, part of the County Department of Health which achieved major improvements in both quality and quantity of care for youngsters, as well as upgrading of equipment and physical surroundings for patients.

— Blood Pressure Control Program, a free clinic that is successfully treating 60 percent of those found to have hypertension.

— Sacred Heart Women's Day Care Center, an alcohol abuse treatment facility for women which takes into consideration their special problems and needs due to child care and job responsibilities.

Vanpools pushed by legislature

By ROBERT LAW
State Representative
36th District

One of the most practical ways to conserve gasoline in face of the serious shortfalls that have been predicted is to join an employer sponsored vanpool to get to and from work.

These vanpool programs are springing up all around Michigan and last week, I sponsored a series of bills to make it easier on employers and employees to form and join these programs.

The bills provide a gas tax and sales tax exemption and a state income tax and single business tax credit as incentives to employees and employers interested in sponsoring vanpool programs. In addition, the bills clarify questions regarding vanpool insurance and workers' compensation.

Employers in Michigan have already expressed a good deal of interest in vanpooling. The state has a program about a year old and the Governor recently asked the Legislature to appropriate half a million dollars to implement a ride sharing program that could save as much as 22 million gallons of gas each month. Law sponsored the ridesharing legislation last year and initiated research to develop the present program.

Corporations such as Chrysler, Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell have all sponsored vanpools.

These six bills will make it more attractive to other smaller businesses by providing substantial incentives and removing certain obstacles.

I'm sure you'll agree the ridesharing programs benefit the general public in addition to employers and employees. The programs can reduce parking needs and are valuable in recruiting and retaining employees by reducing the overall transportation costs.

Under the provisions of the six bills, vanpoolers would be entitled to a refund on the tax they pay on gasoline to operate the van throughout the year.

Employers would receive a state income tax credit to offset their ridesharing costs and contributions, as well as a credit on the single business tax for the net costs paid or accrued for organizing, promoting and administering a vanpool program. Vanpool vehicles with a seating capacity of 15 persons would qualify for a state sales tax exemption.

Vanpool programs would also be exempt from the no-fault insurance law, as are school buses, public transportation services and taxicabs. The responsibility for passenger injuries would be shifted to the passenger's personal automobile insurance policy.

Employees injured while traveling between home and work in an employer sponsored vanpool would not be eligible for increased workers' compensation coverage under the proposed legislation.

Conservation of gasoline is substantial, and the air quality will improve with fewer cars on the road, while traffic congestion would be reduced.

A recent Harris survey indicated that Americans, by better than a three-to-one margin, favor legislation that would encourage people to carpool to and from work.

People are becoming very concerned about energy shortages and want assurances that government is ready to move if the situation worsens.

This proposed legislation would make it easier to save gas and promote a systematic plan to substantially increase ridesharing.

It could prove to be one of the most important steps we take in the face of serious energy shortages.

Birthday license plates

A program which will eventually revolutionize Michigan's method of issuing license plates will get underway this Fall, but the long, last minute lines will endure for one "last hurrah" in 1980.

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin said that after the 1980 phase-in year, the state's new "birthday" registration program "will smooth out and vehicle owners will be paying for 12 month registrations."

Why change to "birthday" license system?

The answers are manifold, according to Austin, but the main reason is better service to the public in making the job of obtaining plates easier. The system is designed to eliminate the long lines which have plagued Michigan motorists for years and have been a source of inconvenience and annoyance.

"This is not the only benefit," Austin noted. "It will help the Michigan Department of State maintain a more even level of service to the public through the entire year; reduce the extra costs of last minute plate buying; and allow registration files to be updated more rapidly, increasing their usefulness to law enforcement agencies."

It should save more money in the long run, as well, because it will eliminate hiring and training temporary employees by the Department of State to handle the last-minute "rushes". And the much less hectic system should result in a significantly lower error rate in processing registrations.

Birthday registrations will affect the vast majority . . . estimates are well over 95 percent . . . of Michigan's 7.5-million vehicles. It will take in all privately owned passenger vehicles and all individually owned pickup trucks, vans and trailers.

Excluded are commercial vehicles such as large trucks, semi-trucks, buses, and trailers owned by a company or other non-individual owners. Expiration date for these vehicles will continue to be the last day of February. Expiration date for motorcycles, ham radio operator plates and personalized plates will continue to be March 31 and are also excluded from the "birthday" system.

According to Austin, the birthday expiration date was chosen because it is easily remembered. Every fourth year, too, persons will be able to renew their driver license at the same time. It also provides for a more even number of registrations each month which make the issuing process quick and efficient.

Austin anticipates only one possible time where there might be some confusion on the new system and that is during the phase-in period during which a person's registration may vary from seven to 19 months, depending on birthdate. Fees, while unchanged, will vary based on the number of months the vehicle is registered.

The amount a person will pay for a registration will be plainly marked on the prepared applications to be sent out to all motorists this Fall. Mail sales which have proven so popular in the past will also be continued.

"Even though it will be much easier to obtain your tabs at a branch office when the new system goes into effect during the 1981 licensing year," Austin said he still prefers the easier method of "using the mail."

After conversion, estimates place yearly savings at about $400,000 besides streamlining the system. "If you add the benefits of a faster service, getting the vehicle information in the central files more quickly, and ultimately, less personnel to do the job, savings may be more substantial."

We applaud this first step toward improving the long-standing problems associated with the purchase of license plates.

While this is a beginning, we would hope that eventually, Austin will consider the 'One Time' vehicle registration numbers which would even further reduce the costs of licensing the state's automobiles.

Displaced homemakers help

By DAVID A. PLAWECKI
State Senator

As Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, I am pleased that help for Michigan homemakers who want to re-enter the job market soon will be available at three centers throughout the state.

They are the Women's Resource Center in Grand Rapids, the Displaced Homemakers Multi-Purpose Service Center at Macomb Community College and the Marquette-Alger Intermediate School District.

The centers will receive a total of $500,000 in state money from the Department of Labor to provide job counseling, vocational testing, training programs, money management advice and other support services.

The funding for this important new program was authorized by the Legislature following last year's passage of a bill creating a counseling and job training program for housewives who find that they must enter the job market to support themselves following a divorce of their husband's death.

These women, who are considered to be "displaced homemakers," often are too young for Social Security and they may have little or no job training and work experience or outdated skills that will make it very difficult for them to find work.

It is estimated by the Department of Labor that there are 70,000 to 90,000 of these women in Michigan who could potentially benefit from such a counseling and job training program.

I believe that the establishment of these centers, which are scheduled to open later this summer, will be an important and necessary step in helping these women to acquire the skills necessary to enter the job market and establish economic independence for themselves. Of course, this also will be beneficial to Michigan's economy.

To be eligible for help at these centers, a woman must be widowed, divorced or the wife of a handicapped person and have worked at home for the past 10 years.

If she has children, the youngest child must be within two years of getting off ADC. Let me mention that men also will be eligible for this assistance if they meet the criteria.

The counseling and training provided by the centers will be tailored to the skills of each individual and will also be based on the kinds of job opportunities that are available. State officials are hoping that each center will be able to help approximately 200 persons during the first year of operation.

The purpose of this program is to help individuals and to demonstrate that with the appropriate counseling and job training these women can successfully obtain employment. I hope that the women who can benefit from this program will utilize it.

They just don't understand

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

I'm sure I will never be the same again. A boat has come into my life.

As the newly ordained skipper of a 17 ft. yacht, let me tell you of the perils of indulging your decadent desires.

I have been travelling the road of life for the last 40 years, content in the pursuits that have classified me as a middle-of-the-road, middle-class, middle intellect.

Oh, there have been a few excursions away from the straight and narrow, such as a set of golf clubs, purchased in a moment of weakness and destroyed in a moment of rage, but in general I have spent my time in worthwhile enterprises, until 'boat'.

Now, I am sure you are all familiar with the story of the deal that was just too good to pass up; well, 'boat" was one of those deals.

Not withstanding the fact that I have been harboring latent nautical fantasies 'boat' appeared on the scene at a price I could not afford to pass up. As it turns out, if the facts had been known, I could not afford to buy it either.

From the beginning, when Doc at the bank, with that all-knowing grin on his face, handed me the check, right up until I slid that fiberglass baby into the water, I could have backed out of the yachting business without any problem at all. But, as soon as I hit the starter switch, and the low rumbling sound of power permeated my brain, I was hooked.

Now, I don't mind telling you that until 'boat', the largest sailing craft I had been in was my 12-foot fishing ship with 5 hp. outboard. I vividly recall looking down my nose at the skippers of those power boats that would roar by me while I was sitting quietly along the bank of a river or lake. The huge swells created by those power boats at 40 m.p.h. were not conducive to quiet fishing. My 12-foot craft would roll and pitch while I muttered to myself about the obvious mental deficiencies of those who would prefer speeding about a lake rather than enjoying the benefits of quiet solitude.

Well, that was before 'boat'.

On the day I slid my fiberglass craft into the water, and fired up that 120 h.p. engine, everything changed.

I was the 'king.' Harboring in my breast the certainty that this craft was the fastest thing on the lake, I fought the desire to ram open the throttle, and thus destroy my credibility with my four children and my wife. Playing it very cool, I idled my pride and joy into open water and slowly, very slowly opened the throttle.

As 'boat' picked up speed heading for open water, we came around a small peninsula in the lake. Reaching full speed, I looked back at the shore of the water near shore, sheltered from previous view, was a 12-foot fishing boat rolling pitching from my wake, with its skipper shaking his head slowly and muttering to himself.

I was sure that he just didn't understand.

I want to express my appreciation for the recent action of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce in endorsing a petition drive aimed at placing the issue of a county executive before the voters.

Our task is not easy; however, through the efforts of the Belleville Chamber we are hopefully a step closer to making it a reality.

BHS musical was great great

Editor:

Every year Belleville High School puts on a musical production; I wonder if they can possibly equal the previous performance. But I have yet to be disappointed and this year was no exception. "Hello Dolly" was terrific!

We're so fortunate to have Louise Pitcher on the staff of BHS. I'm sure she would be the first to say that without the tremendous cooperation from everyone, Mr. Curtis' marvelous sets, Mr. Miller's tremendous band and the many others who helped with tickets, make-up, ushering etc., it could not have been such a success. Thank you all for giving us those hours of wonderful enjoyment, particularly the cast. You were super.

For advice

Ask Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMO, C.S.W.

DEAR CAROL,

I am in my early 20's and have a 3 year old.

I have no previous experience or education that would allow me to work at a job that I could save any money at. My husband has a violent temper, whenever he doesn't get his own way, he resorts to force. I don't even have to do anything to provoke it.

He becomes so violent I fear for my life. One example, he felt I couldn't get in the car fast enough, he punched me with his fist, knocked me under the brake pedal.

I weigh about 100 pounds. He weighs 180 pounds, so, I have no way of competing with him.

I would like to take my child and leave, but I don't have the money or means to get far enough away and change my identity so he could not find us. I know for sure if he did find us he would kill us.

HELP

DEAR HELP,

Get out! Take your child and leave immediately. There is no reason for you and your child to suffer abuse! Education, job or money won't help you if you are not around to enjoy them. People have no idea just how much trauma their bodies can tolerate and they should never tolerate any.

If you are afraid your husband would try to hurt you if you left, there are some homes and emergency shelters established for just these circumstances. They will arrange for you and your child to be taken care of, help you get on your feet, arrange for counseling and not let him know your whereabouts.

Legal aid services are also available for persons who cannot afford an attorney. Counseling can also be arranged for your husband. He is ill and needs help but you don't have to stay with him while he gets it.

There are people out there who know what goes on and who are willing to help. Contact: Domestic Violence Project 995-5444 or Assault Crisis Center 994-1616. Get going and good luck.

DEAR CAROL,

I am sometimes at a loss at social affairs. I cannot respond to the insignificant "small talk" that always goes on. As a result, I feel left out, rejected and alone. What can I do?

ALONE

DEAR ALONE,

People almost always respond to genuine interest shown in them. If you don't like "small talk" don't indulge in it. Look around you, see who is there. Talk to people, show an interest in them, who they are, what their interests are.

You don't have to try to be clever or socially sophisticated. Warmth and interest in others usually works a lot better. Try it and let me know how it works for you.

DEAR CAROL,

I do not like it when people swear (using the name of God in vain, referring to body functions). I realize that I can do nothing about the behavior of others; what do I do about the way I feel.

OFFENDED

DEAR OFFENDED,

Under certain circumstances you can have an impact on the behavior of others. If you feel that the people around you are sensitive to your feelings, by all means, express them. Let them know the discomfort you experience with their verbal pollution. This may help them to think of other ways of communicating.

However, swearing is often used as a weapon. It is used to hurt and disarm. It is that thing people use when they think they are losing and want to shock and confuse. If you get uptight with it, you are quickly put at a disadvantage.

Next time someone uses foul or obscene language in your presence, try looking at them as someone temporarily out of control, or limited as to language skills. Pretty sad sight, isn't it? Maybe then you can just be happy you're not them, rather than being so upset by their misbehavior.

Kristi is gone

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

On Monday, Kristi, the three-year-old niece of Joyce Hagelthorn drowned.

While it is impossible for us to feel the grief that Kristi's parents must now suffer, we can all share the pain that such a loss creates.

The innocent bright smiling face of a three-year-old is one of God's finest gifts to the world.

To have had an opportunity of loving that little face is some consolation, but not enough. Knowing that the unsettled world is often harsh on little girls is some consolation, but not enough. And knowing that Kristy is now safe from all of life's pain, is also consolation, but not enough.

Perhaps there is no consolation now for those who loved Christy, but as sure as she existed, she affected those who loved her.

They will be the beneficiaries of the legacy of her short life.

KRISTI

The twinkling eyes have closed
The sound of tiny, dancing feet has ceased and over all a quietness has descended...
a sadness, unlightened by the glancing rays of sunlight which find their way through the shuttered windows.

Kristi is dead.

One day the doors of heaven opened and two cherubims swept through the fleecy clouds to lift between them our darling.
And through the separating mist
our little baby trod
until at last she was safe, close in the arms of God.

Grieve not, the angels cry for the joy that Kristi brought can never be denied.
For as you held the blessedness of the wee one loaned to you, and as you heard her laughter
and felt her total love, remember she was giving that which she had brought from above.

For Kristi lives!

The angels tend upon her...
God's arms are safe and warm
And until you meet again
Kristi is safe from harm.

Packing kid's clothes and stuff

By SHERRY WAINES

Dear Sherry: Here's a tip on how to pack children's clothing when travelling. In individual plastic or paper lunch bags put a days worth of clothing for each child. This would include clean underwear, top, shorts, and socks. Then put the child's name on each bag or small piece of paper to be seen through the plastic bag.

This may seem like a lot of unnecessary work if you are not used to packing this way but I guarantee it will eliminate rummaging through suitcases. It also helps if you have a child who takes forever deciding what to wear, this way you could give him the choice between two bags only.

If your child is going to visit someone for a few days, without parents, this way of packing their clothes will be a life saver for the hostess. I have had children come to visit only to have everything inside messed up and wrinkled by the children looking through everything for what they want to wear.

Gladys P., Royal Oak

Dear Sherry: My husband literally saved my sanity the day he gave my daughter a container to hold all of her Barbie doll paraphernalia. If your daughter collects these dolls and all the things that go with them than you know exactly what I am talking about.

Dear Sherry: When my sisters and I were growing up, our mother made all of our summer clothing. My favorite color was green so she made all of my clothes green. My two sisters' favorite colors were blue and orange so their clothes were all blue and orange.

It was our job to fold and put away our own clothes and we never had any trouble detecting our own clothing. Not only was it

The stuff is real cute but it seemed to be everywhere, under the sofa cushions, stairs, on the floor when I would be vacuuming, in the car, everywhere.

I tried all types of containers but somehow those little shoes and things would not stay in one place.

She has spent many a happy hour playing with her dolls but I was drawing close to pitching out the whole kit and kabootle when my husband gave her his old fishing tackle box.

It is small and plastic with two trays of little compartments to hold all those little things. The bottom is big enough to hold two dolls and all their clothing. It has a nice clasp for opening and closing plus a handle.

It's just great. I haven't stepped on one of those little shoes since.

How I love that man. Karen S., Livonia great for us but it was a never fail way for our mother to see who wasn't picking up their clothes.

Moms can be really tricky that was. Mary W., Romulus

Dear Sherry: Our family is camping freaks. If you know anything about camping than you know that no matter what, there is never enough room for everything that you would like to take with you.

You know what they say "Give a camper an extra piece of rope and he will find something else to tie onto the car". Anyway, we had a real problem with the kids wanting to take everything that they owned. We finally had to tell them that they were allowed to bring only what would fit into their school tote bags. The bags are small canvas bags with handles.

The bags don't take up that much room in the camper and are easily hung up once we get our camp situated. It's absolutely amazing what those kids are able to fit into their bags. They also know that anything that they want to purchase while travelling has to be able to fit into their bags.

Connie J., Belleville

Dear Folks: My goodness, aren't parents great? Have a good day. Sherry

A 'waif' finds success with a bat

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The 1976-77 school year was a year of great decisions for young Chris Baker.

Baker, picked in the first round of the recent major league free agent baseball draft, now finds himself having to make an equally crucial decision about his future this year.

The Detroit Tigers want Baker's services and are willing to pay the lanky 6-4 Livonia Franklin senior a heap of money for his signature on a professional contract.

A host of colleges and universities across this fair land of ours also know about the young athlete from Dearborn Heights and are giving him special attention in order to get him to sign a letter of intent to enroll at their school.

CHRIS BAKER

But there was a time in Baker's recent past that he must have felt like a waif.

And the blame for that bit of depression was triggered by voters in the North Dearborn Heights School District where Baker started his academic and athletic careers.

In 1976, the voters turned down a millage levy, thereby forcing the school board to cut back programs and, as usual the first to go were athletics.

Riverside, where Baker was entering his junior year, announced that it would not field a basketball team.

It may have been the best thing that could have happened in Baker's life.

Chris may have been lost in the controversies that usually erupt when high schools drop sports.

Instead of losing his final two years of eligibility, Baker transferred to Livonia Franklin where the doors eventually led to a professional contract.

The Detroit Tigers thought so highly of this young sapling of an athlete that they drafted him right after the internationally known University of Michigan quarterback, Rick Leach.

The Tigers made Leach their No. 1 draft choice and, having two first round picks because they had loss pitcher Jim Slaton to the Milwaukee Brewers as a free agent last winter, they immediately went after Baker.

Baker was a budding athlete at Riverside High, a Class B school which had and is having its problems competing against the big "A" schools in the Tri-River Conference.

When the millage failed, Riverside's athletes had two alternatives: Either sit out the year and hope a subsequent millage would pass, or they could migrate to neighboring communities where districts still maintained competitive sports.

Baker was one of the more fortunate athletes.

An outstanding basketball player who, as a sophomore, was named to the all-conference and all-city teams in Dearborn Heights, the Bakers lived on the northern tip of the city which borders Livonia.

Across the border, Baker found an uncle. He moved in with him. He was also welcomed by the Livonia Franklin athletic staff who immediately saw a lot of potential in the young man.

Robichaud makes picking the 1979 Associated Newspapers' All-Area Track & Field team "easy pickings."

The reigning Class B state champions who have earned that title twice during Leit Jones's six-year tenure as head coach donate the services of such outstanding performers as two-time state champ, sprinter Mark Woodson, half-miler Terry Ross, hurdler Darryl Goree, versatile Bruce Swasey, Calvin Townsend, Arthur Chambers, Bruce Brock and Camille Swasey.

Add to this list such notables as Wayne Memorial's premier distanceman Doug Tolson and half-miler Mark Michalowski, plus Plymouth Salem's vaulters Dennis Ogden, Jack Welman and long jumper Rich Hanschu, along with his teammate Bob Pittaway, a talented shotputter, and the mythical team begins to take its formidable shape.

Romulus is represented by Donald Grandison who made long jump and high jump history at the school.

Grandison's teammates Richard Lewis and David Earle also crack the All-Area barrier in the hurdles. Both had outstanding seasons.

The Northwest Suburban Conference champion, Westland John Glenn, has five members of its team on the All-Area roster. They are Brad Jennings (high jump), Gary Black (discus), Dan O'Brien (discus and shot put), Cory Gielenski (mile), and Greg Houfley (quarter-mile).

Rounding out the team are Livonia Franklin's Don Boka, an excellent shot put and discusman and his teammate, Jeff Reich, a half-miler. Inkster's Ken Crouch, considered one of the better sprinters in the SAC, along with Livonia Churchill's Issa Khoury, noted for his discus and shot putting ability, have keys to this year's All-Area success.

Robichaud also figured dominately when it came time to pick the relay teams for the 1979 squad. Jones' 880-yard team made up of such prominent names as Darryl Goree, Mark Woodson and the two Swasey brothers — Camille and Bruce and the Bulldogs' mile relay team with Arthur Chambers, Terry Ross, Camille Swasey and Woodson were awarded the accolades.

Romulus, with Grandison, Michael Scott, Richard Lewis and Larry Young, had the inside track for the 440-yard relay honors.

WOODSON is an exceptional athlete who tri-captained the state champs and picked up an assortment of honors en route to gold medals at the state in the 220-yard and 440-yard dashes in Grand Rapids. Of the 48 points the Bulldogs scored to win the championship trophy, Woodson accounted for 28, more than half. The 18-year-old senior has been a member of Coach Leit Jones's teams for the past four years. He runs the 100, 220, 440, mile relay and the 880-yard relay. Mark owns the school record in the 100 (9.6) and the 220 record (21.0) and his 49.35 is tops for the 440. He has been regional champ in all three events and was Michigan's top schoolboy performer in the 220 which paved the way for an invitation to compete in the Mid-West "Meet of Champions." Woodson has accepted an athletic scholarship to Wayne State University. Another unique characteristic about this young athlete is that he has neither been absent or tardy to school since the eighth grade.

ROSS also ended a four-year track career and the 18-year-old senior tri-captain has been a prominent figure in the quarter, half-mile events as well as both the mile and 880-yard relays. His best time in the 440 was a 51.3 and he ran a 1:56.3 for the half. Ross is the regional and state champion at the 880-yard distance. Michigan also extended Ross an invitation to compete in the "Meet of Champions" which will be staged in Fort Wayne, Indiana. He'll be running for Prarieview A & M University in Texas next year.

GOREE'S importance to Robichaud's team is clear-cut. Without this excellent athlete the Bulldogs lost to Ecorse, with him in the line-up they beat Ecorse and won the state championship. A 17-year-old senior tri-captain and four-year letter winner in track, Darryl's contributions to the team's success are in the 120-yard high hurdles, 880-yard relay and the pole vault. He set a Huron Relay (Eastern Michigan University) and Spartan Relay (Michigan State) record in the 60-yard hurdles. Goree also placed sixth at the prestigious Mansfield (Ohio) Relays. His best time for the highs in a 14.3. He also is displaying gold medals for his victories at the regional and state. Darryl has accepted a football scholarship to Mason City in Iowa.

BRUCE SWASEY'S versatility turned the tide for the Bulldogs in many meets. His four-years of track experience helped younger athletes to find an image to copy. Bruce runs the 100, 220, 120-high hurdles and the 330-lows as well as long jumps for the team. He is a strong relay runner.

TOWNSEND is the strongest member of the Robichaud team. The 6'2", 258-pound shotputter bench

ANP's Coach of the Year

Robichaud's Leit Jones is keeping fast company

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

There is a charisma about Leit Jones that acts as a magnet, drawing raw young and eager high school track talent to him.

Jones then goes about his business molding this talent into some of the best track and field athletes in the state. The 30-year-old Robichaud's coach's 1979 team reached the epitome of success: the Class B state championship.

Jones' Bulldogs also captured their sixth consecutive Suburban Athletic Conference championship this season and over a period of six years his teams have won three regionals and two state titles.

For his outstanding contribution to athletics, The Associated Newspapers is proud to honor Leit Jones as its "Coach of the Year" in track.

Jones, a former Robichaud

LEIT JONES

High track and football star who earned letters in both sports at Wayne State University, has a biblical approach toward his athletes and coaching.

"I treat my athletes the way I would like to be treated," Jones said. "If there is a key to our success, then that's it."

Jones also says having two of the best assistant coaches - Francis McCauley and Robert Kruse - gives the program excellent versatility.

Does the community appreciate what Jones and his two assistant coaches have accomplished?

"I think so," Jones said. "We have a zealous flock of fans made up of parents and students who seem to follow us whether we're in Marysville or Grand Rapids. That kind of loyalty makes our jobs a little more easier and gratifying."

Leit and his wife, Linda, have two children, Leit Jones, Jr. who, is 7, and travels with the team. He is developing into "quite a hurdler" according to his father. The Jones's also have a seven month infant girl, Stephanie. They make their home in Inkster.

Van Buren softball

Craft plays like a champ

Master Craft rallied for six runs in the bottom of the fourth to stop a stubborn Krug's 9-5 in their initial encounter of the Van Buren Township women's softball league.

Alice Anthony, off to a shaky start, managed to settle down and chalk up the victory. Ms. Anthony gave up two runs in the first inning and two more in the third but her teammates racked up 13 hits and erupted for six big runs in the fourth to put the game away.

Denise Winkler led Master Craft's attack as she pounded out three hits and collected two runs batted in. Eise Eberhardt and Cheri Kalasz split four hits and four RBIs, while Ruth Pappas also sliced a pair of singles for the winners.

Meanwhile, over in the men's league Bigs and Wags Inc. proved it'll be a major factor in the title race as it humbled Apollo 13-1 behind Bob Stoddard's two-hit pitching and a 16-hit attack on loser Bill Russell.

Stoddard missed a rare shutout when Tim Ryznar managed to score an unearned run. Daps Dapsi belted four hits, including a pair of two-baggers and counted five RBIs and Bill Dillon latched on to three singles and a double which counted for four RBIs.

Bigs & Wags amassed 20 hits to beat Burhop and pitcher Hank Bies in the first meeting between these two teams this season. Tom O'Harris hammered a homer and had three singles which produced six runs for the winners while Benny Collins made it rough on winning pitcher Lonz Benton. Collins missed hitting for the cycle when he failed to get a triple.

Dave Lundell also came close to the cycle, banging out a single, double and triple and driving in two of the 10 Burhop runs.

Rheem Mfg. and pitcher Gene McKeon had no problem with Moose Lodge, turning back their rivals 12-1 for their first win of the season. Mike Anguilm had three hits while teammates Mark Fromer, Jim Anguilm and Larry Houle each checked in with two.

Randy Smith tripled and scored for the losers.

Suburban 8 softball queens

Compiling a 10-2 record in the Suburban 8 Conference, Belleville High's girls' softball team captured its inaugural league championship. The title is the first one for the Tigers in any sport in recent years. Members of Coach Peggy Curtis's team are Cindy Mayer (kneeling, from left) Jackie Moore, Vickie Forest, Linda Spino, Veronica Richards, Nancy Wisniewski, Betsy Nota, and Judy Brown; second row are Jon Hancotte, student manager, Laura Houle, Jill Mlsna, Lisa Ray, Patty Kalasz, Sherie Houle, Debbie Fuller, and Coach Curtis. (Not available at the time of the photo are team members Kim Beckley and Debbie Kottke.)

Belleville wins conference softball girls' championship

It took Belleville High's girls' softball team to snap the title drought at that school.

Coach Peggy Curtis's Tigers wrapped up their first Suburban 8 Conference championship thanks to a 10-4 league record. It was the first title in recent years for any of the teams at the school.

And Curtis's team may hang on to the title for at least a couple of more years.

"We had 16 players on the roster this year," Mrs. Curtis explained, "and 14 of them will be returning a year from now. So we're very optimistic about our future."

A couple of good reasons why the Tigers will be tough a year from now is that junior hurlers Betsy Nota and Judy Brown are returning. Nota amassed a 11-2 won-lost role and came through in the tight spots.

Shortstop Vickie Forest pounded the ball around at a .390 clip and the 14-year-old sophomore has an excellent shot at making the all-conference team. Laura Houle, a leftfielder, batted .358 in the league. She's also a junior.

One key player who'll be missed is senior Debbie Fuller. Fuller ended her high school softball career with a .375 batting average. She'll be heading for Mt. Pleasant in the fall to attend and play for Central Michigan University.

Debbie Kottke, a centerfielder, who chipped in with a .350 batting average, is another mainstay of the Tiger offense which proved to be the best in the league and gave Class A district champ a scare before falling 8-7 in 10 innings in the playoffs.

"One thing that really impresses me about our team," Coach Curtis pointed out, "is that on defense each and every one did her job. It seemed that when we needed the big play there was someone who would come through.

"Our success was really an all-out team effort," Coach Curtis added.

He may win trip to Scotland

If the chips fall into the right places Bob Hessler may win $1,000 and a trip to Scotland.

Hessler, of 21455 Karr Road, became eligible for the trip and money as a result of scoring a hole-in-one at the Barton Hills Country Club.

Hessler's ace qualified him for the 19th annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Liqueur Company of Edinburgh, Scotland.

The winner will be announced early next year.

Inkster sprinter wins state crown

Though she went unnoticed by the mass media last week, high school track and field fans couldn't help but notice Inkster High sprinter Angelia Collins.

Collins, after leading her Vikings to a perfect Suburban Athletic Conference season record of 4-0 and the SAC track champion, captured the Class B state title in the 220-yard dash in competition held in Grand Rapids at Houseman Field House.

The petite Inkster sophomore turned in a dazzling 25.6 to become the lone area gold medal winner at the state.

And with two full years of competition before her, Miss Collins may own most of the state sprinting records before she wraps up her high school career.

"Angelia is a super athlete with a great future ahead of her," said Coach Jenny Madison. "We had an exceptional year this year because our kids worked hard."

In the SAC, the Vikings swept six first places with Miss Collins chalking up victories in the 100-yeard dash and the 220 in times of 11.0 and 25.5, respectively. She won two other golds for her part in the relays.

Inkster also won the 2-mile thanks to Elonda Clowes's performance. She was clocked in 13 minutes flat. Carla Aldrich won the league title for the mile in 6:10.0.

Inkster's 880-yard relay team, anchored by Miss Collins, coasted to victory as Tamara Height, Carrol Claypoole and Sandra French teamed with the speedy sprinter to finish in 1:46.6.

Etta White replaced Miss French in the 440-yard relay and Claypoole, Height and Collins fashioned a 51.1 to earn the SAC crown.

The Viking coach put together a foursome made up of Tonya Payme, Carlettia Ervin, Tamara Height and Patricia Nixon who won the mile relay in 4:25.0.

Wayne grid boosters on fund-raising campaign

If you're a Wayne Memorial football team fan, — or like to play bingo — this bit of news is for you.

The Wayne High Varsitv Booster Club is out to raise some money for Coach Floyd Carter's gridders to that the only thing the veteran Zebra coach and his team will have on their minds is winning.

So the boosters are sponsoring a "Bingo Night" 7 p.m. Friday, June 22 at the Wayne Ford Civic League Hall on Wayne Rd., between Marquette and Ford Rd.

There will be plenty of prizes and the money raised is for a good cause. It'll help purchase some of the necessary grid equipment for the 1979 campaign.

Spartans head for Indiana

Eddie Fowler and Jim Utt's trip to the Federation Great Lakes Zone Wrestling Championships paid off in a pair of medals for the Wayne wrestlers.

Fowler finished second and Utt was third at their respective weight classes.

The five-state tournament was held June 2 at Valparaiso, Indiana. Fowler and Utt are members of the Spartan Wrestling Club whose home-base is Wayne Memorial.

Fowler and Utt will join several other members of the Spartan Club and head for the AAU Central Nationals to be held in Indianapolis on June 20 through June 24. Competition will be held in both Greco-Roman and freestyle, and the competitors are between the ages of 5 and 18 years old.

Coaches for the team are Ed Fowler and Jerry Wiebecke and young wrestlers who wish to join the club should -ontact Fowler at 728-7468.

Canton to run for fun

Canton wants you to join it for an inaugural "Run for Fun."

"The idea behind the 'fun run' is to get as many people as possible involved in jogging for their health and enjoyment," said Bob Dates, program coordinator for the Canton Parks and Recreation Department.

"No times will be kept and an individual may run as far as he - or she - wishes."

The joggers will meet 10 a.m., Saturday, June 16 at Canton Township Administration Building Parking Lot, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd.

A special award certificate will be presented to all those who participate. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Bob Dates at 397-1000, extension 211.

Belleville Tigers seeking swimmers

If competitive swimming is your forte and you live in Belleville, the Belleville Tigers want to talk to you.

The Tigers, a competitive swim club, help develop swimming skills and physical fitness for boys and girls of all ages.

Ben Robertson, who has 18 years of coaching experience, has taken over as the head coach.

"I would like to stress that this is not a 'learn-to-swim program!" Robertson said, "but we do teach young swimmers the skills and strokes necessary to compete. Our club is a non-profit organization."

All high school, junior high school and former swim club members are urged to attend training sessions, Robertson added.

Tryouts and registration for the summer session will be conducted Thursday and Friday, June 14 and 15, and Monday and Tuesday, June 18 and 19 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Belleville High School pool.

There is a registration fee of $32 for the 11-week session.

presses 330-pounds and can full squat with 450 pounds. He possesses the school record in the shot put at 53 feet, 6½ inches and tosses the discus 140 feet. A severely fractured ankle handicapped him at the regionals and state.

CHAMBERS, a 16-year-old junior, runs the mile and two-mile events and holds the school record for both. He has turned in a 4:29.6 for the one and a 9:53.7 for the two miles. Bruce placed third at the regional and posted the 11th best Class B time in the state for the mile run.

CAMILLE SWASEY is a freshman any coach would like to have on his roster. The 15-year-old athlete can just about anything. An excellent sprinter he also figures highly in the 440 and 880-yard relays and has been clocked at 10.4 (100) and 23.5 (220). His best mile relay split is a 51.9 and he placed sixth in the 100 at the regionals.

"I don't even want to think what this young man will do before he completes his high school career," Jones pointed out. "He loves track and his performances reflect just that."

TOLSON is a rare talent. He definitely will become one of the top college picks a year from now when he graduates from Wayne Memorial. The 17-year-old junior was runner-up in the state in the two-mile, and cleaned up just about every invitational title he had entered this year. He is the reigning Great Lakes 8 Conference champ in the mile and two-mile and has toured the two-mile in a dazzling 9:14.1, a time that, if he had duplicated at the state, would have earned for him the state crown. No stranger to All-Area line-ups, Doug broke the barrier as a sophomore in cross country.

MICHALOWSKI ended his prep career, winning the conference title in the half-mile. His 1:58.2 is second only to Robichaud's Ross who holds down the top area time in the 880 with a 1:56.2. Also a three year performer for the Zebras in both cross country and track, Mark provided Coach Ernie Righetti with "sure points" in every event he was entered.

OAKLEY, Belleville's lone representative to this year's elite club, was undefeated in dual meets for Coach Dave Medley's Tigers. A third place finisher in the mile at the regional, the 17-year-old senior has been clocked in 4:27 in the event. He also was named to the Suburban 8 Conference all-league team after finishing second at the championships. His 9:40 for the two-mile gave him a third place meda in the league. A member of the elite All-Area cross country team of 1978, Oakley has been a member of Tiger track and cross country teams for the past three years.

GRANDISON steadily improved as a high jumper and long jumper for Coach Al Wilkerson over at Romulus High School. He leaped six-feet as a ninth grader and cleared six-feet, four as a 10th-grader and made it over the six-feet, 10 inch bar as a junior. This year Grandison placed fourth in the state. Though he didn't reach his anticipated goal of seven-feet this year, Don did successfully clear six-feet, 10 inches. He is also an excellent long-jumper. His 22 feet, 5 inch leap ranks among the tops in the area. Grandison also is the Eagles' leadoff leg on the 330-yard relay.

EARLE will be back. The lone junior on Romulus' squad this year, this outstanding hurdler turned in a 39.4 for the 330-yard lows which earned for him a gold medal at the regional. Earle ran into some problems at the state finals, however, and finished out of the money when he ran a 39.1.

"Earle has a lot of potential," says Coach Wilkerson, "and, next year, he should be one of the top performers in the state."

LEWIS returned from Flint Northwestern, the site of the Class A state finals, with a sixth place medal for his efforts in the high hurdlers. He was clocked in 14.5 in the semi-finals at the state meet. Lewis's athletic versatility shows up in the 880-and-440-yard relays. He was anchorman for the Eagles' record-setting hurdle shuttle relays. He won the Wayne and Bedford invitationals as a hurdler and placed second at the regionals.

Romulus and Wilkerson also have the best 440-yard relay team around. Thanks to the winning combination of Grandison, Michael Scott, Richard Lewis and Larry Young, the Eagles went undefeated in dual meets and also picked up gold medals at the Western Wayne, Wayne Invitational, while finishing second at the multi-state Bedford Invitational.

O'BRIEN is one of a handful of John Glenn athletes who was called upon to carry more than his share to make the Westlanders a winner in the Northwest Suburban Conference. A three-year letterwinner, Dan was named as the 1979 Rockets' co-MVP and tri-captain. He's the No. 3 ranked shot putter in the area and among the top discus throwers. Dan, an All-Area gridder, was picked as an all-league candidate as a member of the Rockets 880 and 440 yard relay teams.

HOUFLEY is also a multi-talented athlete who, at crucial situations, came through with the key performance than meant the difference between victory and defeat. Greg, the other co-MVP, completed three years of varsity competition and was named to the all-conference team as a long jumper.

JENNINGS has earned varsity numerals in football, basketball and track and has been the conference's top choice for the high jump the past two years. He owns the school record in that event at six-feet, four inches and he also was selected as the all-conference high hurdler this year.

GIELINSKI is fast becoming one of the best distancemen at a high school which has produced some of named the conference's No. 1 miler for the past two years and will co-captain next year's defending championship team.

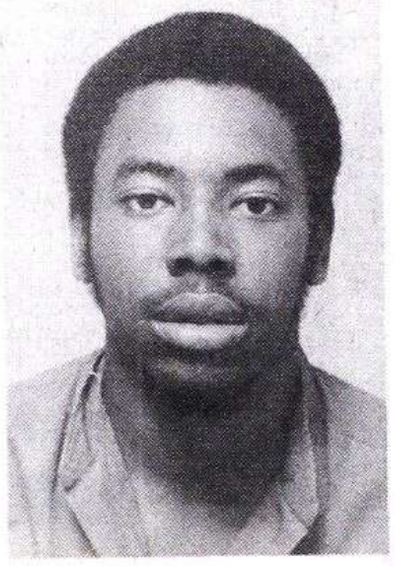
BLACK, also a junior, is being groomed to replace O'Brien in the shot put and discus. His 149'10" toss missed breaking the Glenn school record by one inch, a record that will surely be his a year from now. A two-year letterman, Gary has a school award which indicates that he was the "Most Improved" trackman in '79. He will serve as a co-captain in 1980.

"These five young men were the heart of our team," said Coach Barry Basel. "Because of the size of our team, two of these athletes (O'Brien and Houfley) were in four events each meet and the other three were usually never in two or less events.

"This, I'm sure, slowed their progress because they couldn't concentrate on their specialty, but it also showed their unselfishness," Coach Basel said, "and it was because of their unselfishness that we were able to win the league title this year."

BOKA was an outstanding performer in the field for Coach Bob Holmes and Livonia Franklin for the past three years. The muscular 18-year-old senior, who earned All-Area accolades as a gridder, holds the school record in the discus at 156 feet, 6 inches. He was regional champ in the shot put, with a put of 52 feet, 7 inches and placed second in both of his specialties in Northwest Suburban Conference competition.



LARRY YOUNG

REICH is the reigning Northwest Suburban champ in the half-mile, a distance which he covered in 1:59.0 to win the gold. A multi-talented athlete, Jeff has seen his name in print as an All-Area, All-League performer in cross country and was also named to the conference's second team in basketball last season. He completes his third year on Holmes' varsity squad.

KHOURY missed snatching the regional shot put crown away from his city rival, Boka, by inches and was forced to settle for a siver medal. He also came away with a fourth place at the regional for his efforts in the discus. The Western Six Conference champ in the shot, Issa surprised the league by also running away with the league title in the high hurdles.

CROUCH was one of the bright spots in Inkster's 1979 season. The daring sprinter refused to remain in the shadows of some of the best and fastest runners in the state and finished the SAC with a ribbon in the 100-yard dash. An exceptional athlete who like a diamond just discovered, needs polish, the Viking sprinter will emerge next year as the one to catch in the 100 and 200.

Walker is picked all- Great Lakes 8

Skip Walker, whose bat and glove kept Wayne Memorial in many a game this season, received post-season honors as the eight coaches of the Great Lakes 8 Conference named the lanky infielder to the all-league line-up.

The 6-2, 185-pound senior first baseman was one of 14 players selected for all-conference recognition by the coaches who also named co-MVP this season. Taylor Truman's Keith Bates will share the MVP award with his teammate Dan Gdowski.

Rog Bechtol, who coached the Taylor Truman team to the 1979 championship, was named as the league's "Coach of the year".

Baker earned a spot on Jim McIntyre's basketball team at center and it remained up to Ron Hellier, then baseball coach at Franklin, and later Gerry Cullin, present coach, to develop the talent.

This year Chris finished with a .377 batting average and when the All-State selections are unveiled he should be in the middle of the line-up. When the team was selected about 10 days ago, Chris had a .400 average.

"You talk about super kids," says Franklin head baseball coach Gerry Gullin, "well, Baker typifies that kind of kid. He's the kind of kid who, if you had a son, you'd wish he'd grow up to be like Chris."

Now Baker is debating whether to grab the Tigers' offer and turn pro or continue his education and play college ball.

It's a tough but rewarding decision to make for an 18-year-old outfielder who owes the North Dearborn Heights voters a measure of gratitude for NOT passing a millage.

Institute exhibition explores Persia

Thousands of words have been written to explain, explore and express the conquests and travels of Alexander the Great more than 2,200 years ago.

Now, a collection of modern photographs offers a look at much of Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan where Alexander fought and eventually died.

"To the Indus with Alexander the Great" is an exhibition of 50 photographs on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts through July 22.

The color and black and white photographs were taken by George R. Booth Jr. of Wayne State University, and the exhibition was organized by Professor Bernard Goldman, also of WSU.

The photos reveal that much of the area today remains as Alexander saw it in the fourth century B.C. Across the countryside the small villages and agricultural communities retain their ancient visual and organizational character. The massive mud brick walls of Balkh, Afghanistan, still rise above farmlands just as they did during the many months they sheltered Alexander's troops. Food still is prepared over open fires, oxen continue to drag wooden plows and

State goes foreign

For a close-to-home glimpse of the world, tour Michigan and see the Dutch windmill at Holland, taste the Polish kielbasa in Hamtramck and listen to some German oom-pa-pa music at Frankenmuth, suggests Automobile Club of Michigan.

Before the French arrived in Detroit, Muskegon and St. Ignace in the 17th Centrury, it was the Indians who ruled the land. Bay Mills in the Upper Peninsula is one of only a few Indian reservations remaining in the state.

Street signs with Polish names are reminders of the people who settled in Posen, a tiny northeast Michigan community which calls itself the "Potato Capital of the World." Only Polish is spoken in many stores along Hamtramck's Joseph Campau Avenue although Ukrainian is the language heard in some Hamtramck homes.

Finnish is spoken along with English at Hancock's Suomi College, which was founded by descendents of immigrants who worked in Copper Country mines. Iron Mountain, another Upper Peninsula town, was founded by Italian immigrants who came to work in the mines after iron ore was discovered there in 1879.

The Greek Orthodox crosses of Holy Trinity Church are reminders of the people who settled in Lansing in 1890. Detroit's Greektown restaurants attract thousands who come to listen to Greek music and sample delicacies like souvlaki, shish kebab and baklava.

The rich farmlands near Saginaw lured Latino laborers, and many stayed to become an integral part of that city's culture. Michigan's auto plants lured many people from other lands, including the Latinos, who settled along Detroit's Bagley Avenue, and the Lebanese, who moved to Flint in large numbers.

The Detroit area is home to other Mideast immigrants—the Chaldeans, the Palestinian Arabs and the Israelis. Dearborn has the largest concentration of Palestinian Arabs in the nation. Oak Park is home to many Israeli immigrants.

Although Ypsilanti is a Greek name, the English went there to build mills along the Huron River. Railroad construction lured Chinese immigrants to Jackson.

Despite its name, which means "light" in Norwegian, the tiny Washtenaw County community of Hell sometimes has the state's coldest temperatures in winter. Tourists leave town with bumper stickers or t-shirts proclaiming, "I was in Hell."

While Holland is Michigan's most famous Dutch community, Grand Rapids and Zeeland also have large Dutch populations and their telephone directories list dozens of Van Dams, Van Dykes, Vandervliets and Vander Meulens.

Port Huron's foundries and other industries attracted many immigrants from Russia in the early 1900s.

It's easy to see how Southeast Michigan's scenic Irish Hills area got its name. Settled in the 1830s by immigrants who had fled Ireland's potato crop failures and famines, the area was so named by a minister because its gentle slopes and sparkling lakes reminded him of his native land.

Saris, dashikis and other native dress are a familiar sight on the Ann Arbor campus of the University of Michigan, which attracts students from around the world.

Whether it's the "gemutlichkeit" of Frankenmuth or the wooden shoes of Holland, these reminders of the state's proud ethnic heritage make traveling through Michigan like traveling the world.

For annual muster

Muzzle loaders 'invade' Village

Visitors to Greenfield Village in Dearborn will get a kick out of antique weaponry during the 25th annual Muzzle Loaders Festival Saturday and Sunday, when more than 800 members of revived Civil War units and muzzle loader clubs set their sights on clay pigeons and a host of old-time amusements.

Rebels and Yanks will recreate the excitement of an old-time turkey shoot and the pageantry of military garb and drills. The Muzzle Loaders Festival during its silver anniversary will offer new features as well. These will include a cavalry unit, the 6th Ohio Cavalry, and a campsite and teepee (open to visitors) similar to those used by the 17th and 18th century "voyageurs," the trappers and traders who opened up the uncharted West.

The festival will be the culmination of weeks of preparation for the 3,500 sharpshooters and family members who have painstakingly reproduced period costumes, molded bullets and performed sundry other little-known tasks — such as rubbing a concoction of beef lard and beeswax on their bullets for lubrication.

Marksmen will shoot at breakable and exploding targets, participating in individual contests on Saturday and team competitions on Sunday. In addition, there is a cannon competition on both days.

There will be many other sights and sounds of early America — four revived military bands, the assembly and inspection of military units, Indian and frontier costume judging, Civil War and Indian campsites, knife-making, rifle-making, horn and ivory carving, bullet-molding, miniature soldier carving, and much more.

There will be no additional charge for the Muzzle Loaders Festival beyond the regular Village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children ages 6 through 12. Children under 6 are admitted free.

Art Institute exhibition explores today's Persia grain is sifted by tossing it into the wind with a large fork.

The sharp eye of Booth's camera also records the changes: A nomad standing before his ageless black tent wears a Timex watch. The buffalo-hide sandals are now made of plastic. The girls use hairpins to hold their long braids in place. And, the transistor radio has replaced the lute and shepherd's pipe.

"The life and landscape seen in the photo exhibition will fully succumb to the modern world by the next generation," Goldman predicts.

Photos representing scenes close to those which Alexander knew include the Gate of All Nations, Persepolis, Iran; Khyber Pass, Pakistan; people and houses of Afghanistan; Afghan camel caravan and an exceptional view of the Indus, a mighty river in Pakistan, which marked the end of Alexander's journey and the beginning of his return to Babylon, where he died at the age of 33 in the year 323.

"To the Indus with Alexander the Great" is at the Detroit Institute of Arts after visiting large and small communities across Michigan as part of the museum's "Show on the Road" program since 1978. The exhibition is installed in the art institute's main building near Kresge Court. Public viewing is during regular museum hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Admission is free.

Photographer Booth, accompanied by Goldman, made three trips to the Middle East and most of the photos in the exhibition were taken during trips in 1970 and 1977. Booth is head of the Still Photography Department at WSU. He has exhibited in shows in Detroit, Lansing and Toronto, Canada.

Goldman is professor of Art History, WSU, specializing in Ancient Near Eastern Art.

Dixboro Church is setting for Lemmon-Block wedding

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD A. BLOCK
... Deborah Lorraine Lemmon

A late afternoon ceremony at the Dixboro United Methodist Church in Ann Arbor May 12 united Deborah Lorraine Lemmon and Richard A. Block, both of Romulus.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Lemmon of Porter Street, Romulus, chose a traditional style gown of soft chiffon and alencon lace for the 5 p.m. nuptial. Medallins of lace, with sequins and pearls, trimmed the bodice and waistline, while tight fitting sleeves were slit with a chiffon overlay. The full, bias-cut skirt fell into a chapel lenth train.

Completing the ensemble was a matching headpiece of alencon lace, which held the bride's full-length, lace-trimmed veil in place. Her bouquet was yellow sweetheart roses, with baby's breath and yellow streamers.

Officiating the ceremony was The Rev. Hal Ferris of the Dixboro United Methodist Church. Candelabras, two vases of blue carnations and white and blue baby's breath and pew flowers of white daisies with blue streamers provided the backdrop for the double-ring candlelight ceremony. The music was by organist Bob Walton, with a solo of "Follow Me" by Karen Kobylarz.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride asked her friend, Patty A. Ellis of Romulus to serve as maid of honor. She wore a gown of sky blue qiana, featuring a halter bodice, pleated skirt and matching cape of soft blue chiffon and with a standup collar. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations, white daisies, blue and white baby's breath, and blue and white streamers.

The bridesmaids were Sue Hopson, Kim Christensen and Lori Dick, all of Romulus and all friends of the bride. Their ensembles matched that of the honor attendant's, and they carried colonial bouquets of blue carnations, white daisies, white baby's breath and blue streamers.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Block of Cogswell Road, Belleville, asked a friend, Kevin Proffit of Romulus, to serve as his best man. The ushers were Mickey Ruffalo, friend of the groom; Brent Nieman, cousin of the groom; and Mike Randall, friend of the groom, all of Romulus.

For the late afternoon ceremony, Mrs. Lemmon wore a gown of pink chiffon over taffeta, with a gathered bodice, curved neckline edged in lace, full skirt and long, sheer sleeves. Her flowers were white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Block wore a gown of pink qiana, with a fitted waist and blousson over long a pleated skirt. Small bows tied at the shoulders and flared sleeves complimented the attire. Her flowers were pink carnations, red roses and baby's breath.

A reception for the newlyweds and their 350 guests was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne and was given by the bride's parents. Blue and white crepe paper and large blue bells decorated the hall, and an arrangement of blue carnations, white daisies and baby's breath, as well as matching candle arrangements, decorated the bridal table.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Florida before returning to Belleville, where they now live.

The new Mrs. Block is a 1978 graduate of Romulus Senior High School. she is employed by the Manufacturers Bank in Romulus. Her husband is a 1976 graduate of Romulus High School. He is employed by Caccarb of Romulus and is attending Henry Ford Community College.

Celebrate Strawberry Festival with luscious pies, sundaes

That luscious, juicy, red orb, the strawberry will reign as king this weekend in Belleville for that community's third annual Strawberry Festival.

Slated for Friday through Sunday, the festival will include the selection of a Strawberry queen, bike races and the all important strawberry shortcake eating contest.

But there's more ways to serve strawberries than on shortcakes and in jams.

Hundreds of years ago strawberries were prized for more than just dessert. In medieval times strawberries were considered to be a cure for almost anything. At one time it was even believed that strawberries could heal broken bones! While medical practices have changed one thing has not. The strawberry still is the only remedy for strawberry cravings — a wonderful malady that hits in the spring and lingers through summer!

When shopping for strawberries make sure you get the berry best. Remember to look for berries that are firm, shiny and red because strawberries, unlike other fruits, do not ripen after they are picked. Leave the bright green caps on until you are ready to wash and serve them because the caps protect the delicate strawberry flavor and pleasing texture.

To satisfy that strawberry yearning, you don't need to wait for dessert. Strawberries are wonderful at breakfast, sliced into omelettes, all by themselves or blended into a healthy berry, honey and yogurt drink.

And a frosty strawberry slush is one delicious way to help cool the heat of summer. Whirl strawberries and ice in a blender, then add a splash of lemon-lime soda. Put strawberries on little skewers and add them to the hors d'oeuvre tray for a bright touch that is perfect with cheese.

If your family loves strawberry sundaes and craves strawberry pies try this quick, easy dessert that combines the best of both. A crisp, whole cookie crust adds pleasing crunch to the layers of ice cream and berry-packed sauce. This strawberry dessert is guaranteed to satisfy the wildest of strawberry cravings.

STRAWBERRY SUNDAE PIE

1½ dozen 2-inch crisp cookies or shortbread
1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
2 pints fresh strawberries
One-third cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Line 9-inch pie plate with cookies, halving cookies as needed to fit sides and bottom. Gently spread ice cream in crust; freeze. To make sauce, crush one pint berries; combine in saucepan with sugar and cornstarch. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture begins to thicken. Stir in lemon juice; continue cooking until thick and clear, 3 to 4 minutes. Chill. Halve remaining pint berries; fold into sauce. To serve pie: spoon strawberry sauce over ice cream. Garnish with a sprig of mint, if desired. Cut wedges with a sharp knife. Makes 8 servings.

This Basket of Berries in honor of spring is as colorful as it is delicious. It is equally good for brunch or dessert. And if you have young cooks in your kitchen who are anxious to develop their culinary expertise, it is a fun project made to order.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY FIX
...Sandra Lynn Hammond

In Hammond-Fix nuptial

Bride wears handmade gown Designed, made by grandmother

Wearing a gown made by her grandmother, Myrtie Wells, for her mother, Mrs. David Hammond, was worn by Sandra Lynn Hammond at her May 12 wedding ceremony.

Exchanging vows at the double-ring ceremony were Miss Hammond, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hammond of Belleville, and Larry Fix, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fix of St. Ignes, formerly of Belleville.

Officiated by Pastor Walter Henning at St. Paul Lutheran Church of Belleville, the organist was Mrs. Joanne Osborne. "The Wedding Song" was performed by Cynthia Winekoff, sister of the bride.

The bride's wedding dress was a strapless, floor-length, satin gown, with tulle a hand-embroidered redincoat, featuring a deep V-neckline and long sleeves, and scalloped front on the skirt, all edged in hand-pleated tulle. Tiny satin-covered buttons closed the bodice of the redincoat and the sleeves.

A headpiece of small hand-made illusions petals, centered with seed pearls, in the form of a crown held her finger-tip illusion veil in place. Completing the bridal ensemble was a cascade bouquet of white silk roses and daisies, with greens and white satin ribbon streamers.

The bride asked her sister, Mrs. Winekoff, to serve as her matron of honor. Mrs. Winekoff wore a floor-length qiana knit gown, with scooped neckline, blouson bodice and full cape sleeves, and a wreath of baby's breath in her hair. She carried a wicker basket of silk daisies and spring flowers with a pink bow and streamers.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Pat Fix, sister-in-law of the groom, of Belleville and Mrs. Marge Sweck, sister of the groom, of Carmichael, Calif.

Their gowns matched that of the honor attendants, and all three gowns, as well as headpieces, corsages and boutonnieres were made by Mrs. Wells.

The groom asked his friend, Dan Smith of Milan, to serve as best man. The groomsmen were Richard Fix, brother of the groom, of Belleville and Steve Hammond, brother of the bride, of Belleville.

The ushers were James Woods and Rick Sheldon, friends of the groom and both of Belleville.

Mrs. Fix wore a peach-colored floor-length gown of qiana knot, with matching jacket and white accessories for the early evening ceremony. Her corsage was of silk talisman roses and white daisies.

Mrs. Hammond wore a pale yellow floor-length sundress of embroidered eyelet, with a matching cape and accessories. Her corsage also was of silk talismen roses and white daisies.

A reception for the newlyweds and 175 guests was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne.

The newlyweds now are residing in Belleville, following a 2-week honeymoon trip to Clearwater and Orlando, Fla.

The new Mrs. Fix is a 1976 graduate of Belleville High School and a 1978 graduate of Washtenaw Community College, where she received her associate's degree in X-Ray technology.

Her husband is a 1971 graduate of Belleville High School and attended Eastern Michigan University.

She is employed by the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, while he is an employee of Detroit Diesel Allison in Detroit.

Grow a herb garden

Looking for a way to give fresh summer vegetables a little extra zip? How about growing a few herbs?

J. Lee Taylor, Extension Horticulturist at Michigan State University, points out that herbs don't need much space. You can grow them in a flower pot on a sunny windowsill, in a flower bed, as part of a vegetable garden or in boxes on a porch or patio.

Most herbs do well even in poor soil, as long as it's fairly well drained. A small patch by the back door, where they'll be handy to the kitchen, makes a good companion to a small salad garden. Three or four plants of each herb should provide enough seasoning for the average family.

Most herbs can be seeded directly into the garden in spring. Most annual herbs have to be replanted each year, though some — like chives and dill — will reseed themselves, Perennial herbs, once established, will comel back year after year. after year.

Some herbs can also be propagated by cuttings and division. Clumps of chives, for instance, can easily be divided. Cuttings may be used in late summer to propagate some plants to grow indoors during the winter. Basil, chives, mint, parsley, sweet marjoram and rosemary usually are good choices for windowsill culture.

When and how you harvest herbs depends on the plant and the part to be harvested. Leaves of some herbs, such as parsley and chives, are harvested for fresh seasoning. Simply snip leaves as needed as soon as plants are large enough to spare a few.

Harvest herbs like rosemary and thyme by clipping the tops at full bloom.

Basil, fennel, mint, sage, summer savory, sweet marjoram, tarragon and winter savory are best harvested in the prebloom stage.

The seeds of anise, coriander, dill, fennel and lovage should be harvested early in the ripening process, before the seed heads shatter.

Herbs can be tied in loose bunches and hung in a well ventilated, dust-free room to dry; or they can be spread on hardware cloth, clean window screen or cheesecloth. Leaves may also be stripped from the stems and spread on flat trays.

All herb drying should be done in a cool room, away from sources of artificial heat and sunlight. When leaves are dry and brittle, place them in tightly covered glass jars and store in a dark, cool location. If moisture forms inside the jar, more drying is needed.

EARL KEIM REALTY

We sold a home in Atlanta, Ga. last week to a couple from this city who were transferred there. They knew nothing about that city ... the cost of homes there ... and how to find the neighborhood and home-style of their choice. As a member of NATIONWIDE FIND-A-HOME SERVICE we provided them al the information and professional counsel they needed to find exactly the home they wanted. Though we never saw the home, the new owners were convinced that every step of the transaction was efficiently handled by our NATIONWIDE associate. And we sold their home here, too. If you're transferred to another city, call us — our NATIONWIDE FIND-A-HOME SERVICE is available at no extra cost or obligation. It's part of our professional service.
